Organizational adaptation is a topic that has received only limited and fragmented theoretical treatment. Any attempt to examine organizational adaptation is difficult, since the process is highly complex and changeable. The proposed theoretical framework deals with alternative ways in which organizations define their product-market domains (strategy) and construct mechanisms (structures and processes) to pursue these strategies. The framework is based on interpretation of existing literature and continuing studies in four industries (college textbook publishing, electronics, food processing, and health care)

Raymond E. Miles (Ph.D. — Stanford University) is Professor of Business Administration and Associate Director of the Institute of Industrial Relations at the University of California, Berkeley.

Charles C. Snow (Ph.D. — University of California, Berkeley) is Associate Professor of Organizational Behavior at The Pennsylvania State University.

Organizational Strategy Structure And Process:

Organizational Strategy, Structure, and Process Raymond E. Miles, Charles C. Snow, 2003-03-26 Books and articles come and go endlessly But a few do stick and this book is such a one Organizational Strategy Structure and Process broke fresh ground in the understanding of strategy at a time when thinking about strategy was still in its early days and it has not been displaced since David J Hickson Emeritus Professor of International Management Organization University of Bradford School of Management Originally published in 1978 Organizational Strategy Structure and Process became an instant classic as it bridged the formerly separate fields of strategic management and organizational behavior In this Stanford Business Classics reissue noted strategy scholar Donald Hambrick provides a new introduction that describes the book's contribution to the field of organization studies Miles and Snow also contribute new introductory material to update the book's central concepts and themes Organizational Strategy Structure and Process focuses on how organizations adapt to their environments The book introduced a theoretical framework composed of a dynamic adaptive cycle and an empirically based strategy typology showing four different types of adaptation This framework helped to define subsequent research by other scholars on important topics such as configurational analysis organizational fit strategic human resource management and multi firm network organizations
