

There is a pluralist America but not two Americas. This is so because good lawyers wrote good law, and made of the "no-establishment" and the "free exercise" clauses of the first Amendment not articles of faith but articles of peace.

THE PROBLEM OF PLURALISM IN AMERICA

JOHN COURTNEY MURRAY

THE PROBLEM OF PLURALISM has a twofold origin. It arises, first, from the coexistence within the political community of groups who hold divergent views with regard to ultimate questions concerning the nature and destiny of man. Such questions are basically religious. Pluralism therefore implies a plurality of incompatible religious faiths; it implies disagreement and dissension within the community. On the other hand, pluralism also implies agreement, unity, a certain consensus. The various groups form one community; they agree to live in peace; they all cooperate toward the achievement of the temporal goals of the community. This cooperation toward the common good supposes a certain consensus. In particular, the various groups despite their differences give common consent to the political and legal provisos in which the pluralism of the community finds expression in the structure of the state. Pluralism therefore means harmony amid discord; it means a harmony of social life and political action amid a discord of religious creeds and modes of worship.

If society is to be a rational process, some set of principles must motivate the general participation of all religious groups in the social consensus and their common allegiance to the laws which reflect the pluralism of the society. At the same time these principles must not hinder the maintenance by each group of its own
