a Read the information about getting around the UK.

Getting around the UK

By bus and coach

In the UK, long-distance express buses are called coaches. These are always separate, but they can be very slow. The biggest company is National Express, which has regular services between big cities. They're usually cheaper if you buy your ticket early and travel at quiet times. In many towns, there are separate bus and coach stations, so passengers need to make sure they go to the right place to get their coach.

By car

Car travel in the UK is expensive, and there is often a lot of traffic. However, travelling by car means that you can be independent and flexible, and a car carrying three or more passengers can be cheaper than public transport. Motorways take drivers quickly from one city to the next, but small roads are often more scenic and fun. Parking in the centre of big cities can be difficult and very expensive, so an alternative is to use a Park & Ride. This is a system where drivers pay less to park their cars outside the city and take a bus to the centre.

By train

Trains are generally faster and more comfortable than coaches for long-distance travel, but they can be a lot more expensive. About 20 different companies operate train services in the UK, so the system can be quite confusing. However, passengers can get information on timetables and fares from the National Rail Enquiries website, which also has a way to buy tickets. There are two types of ticket: first and standard, and tickets are much cheaper if you buy them early.

b Read the information again. Write T (true) or F (false).

- Taking a coach is a slow way to travel. T
- The best time to travel by coach is at quiet times. —
- There isn't much traffic in the UK. —
- In a Park & Ride system you take a train. —
- You can buy tickets from National Rail Enquiries. —

c Match the highlighted adjectives to their meanings.

- beautiful _____
- difficult to understand _____
- quite cheap _____
- normal _____
- easy to change something _____
- happening often _____
