School Savvy:

The School-Savvy Therapist Mary Eno, 2019-09-10 When it comes to therapy with kids collaborating with schools and families is essential Kids encounter problems at school that run the gamut from school violence to complex systemic problems rooted in poverty or racism to daily struggles with homework or making friends Therapists who work with kids typically do not receive training about when and how to contact schools or about how to work with them collaboratively The School Savvy Therapist by Dr Mary Eno provides a framework tools and guidelines for doing just that Drawing on research illustrative case examples and interviews this practical resource describes what therapists need to know about schools and how they can effectively foster a supportive child family school dynamic From reviewing test results conducting school observations and attending family school meetings to helping parents advocate for their kids and more this book will help therapists understand the critical role they play in supporting kids who struggle at school Checklists questions and specific guidelines are provided so that both novice and experienced therapists can engage in this work with skill and confidence

Resources in Education ,2000 Having Hard Conversations Jennifer Abrams, 2009-01-08 Speak with clarity confidence and courage Many educators struggle with discussing difficult issues with colleagues This insightful book helps readers effectively lead challenging conversations with supervisees peers and supervisors Emphasizing initiative and preparation as keys to a successful conversation the author s step by step approach provides Thought provoking questions and first person accounts that help build communications skills Advice on overcoming personal hesitation about expressing concerns Guidance on goal setting and choosing the best what where and when for a productive discussion Sample scripts and other interactive tools to help educators prepare for the conversation and achieve positive outcomes Big Theories Revisited Dennis M. McInerney, Shawn Van Etten, 2004-04-01 This text seeks to revisit major theories of motivation and learning in order to evaluate the relevance of each theory to our complex educational environments The chapters are written by the renowned authors of theories or authors who have critiqued theories School Evaluation Ernest R. House, 1973 School Reform, Corporate Style Dorothy Shipps, 2006 Like other big city school systems Chicago s has been repeatedly reformed over the last century Yet its schools have fallen far short of citizens expectations and left a gap between the performances of white and minority students Many blame the educational establishment for resisting change Other critics argue that reform occurs too often still others claim it comes not often enough Dorothy Shipps reappraises the tumultuous history of educational progress in Chicago revealing that the persistent lack of improvement is due not to the extent but rather the type of reform Throughout the twentieth century managerial reorganizations initiated by the business community repeatedly altered the governance structure of schools as well as the relationships of teachers to children and parents but brought little improvement while other more promising reform models were either resisted or crowded out Shipps chronicles how Chicago s corporate actors led abetted or restrained nearly every attempt to transform the city s school system then asks whether schools might be better reformed by others To show why city schools have failed urban children so badly she traces Chicago's reform history over four political eras revealing how corporate power was instrumental in designing and revamping the system Her narrative encompasses the formative era of 1880-1930 when teachers unions moderated business plans previously unexplored business activism from 1930 to 1980 when civil rights dominated school reform and the decentralization of the 1980s She also covers the uneasy cooperation among business associations in the 1990s to install the mayor as head of the school system a governing regime now challenged by privatization advocates Business people may be too wedded to a stunted view of educators to forge a productive partnership for change Unionized teachers bridle at the second class status accorded them by managers If reform is to reach deeply into classrooms Shipp's concludes it might well require a new coalition of teachers unions and parents to create a fresh agenda that supersedes corporate interests This study clearly shows that in Chicago as elsewhere urban schooling is intertwined with politics and power By reviewing more than a century of corporate efforts to make education work Shipp's makes a strong case that it's high time to look elsewhere perhaps to educators themselves for new leadership
