Mobile Information Systems:

Mobile Information Systems Elaine Lawrence, Barbara Pernici, John Krogstie, 2006-01-20 Mobility is perhaps the most important market and technological trend within information and communication technology. With the advent of new mobile infrastructures providing higher bandwidth and constant connection to the network from virtually everywhere, the way people use information resources is predicted to be radically transformed. Over the last years, a new breed of information systems referred to as mCommerce systems or mobile information systems has appeared to address this emerging situation. In 2000, the IFIP 8.1 WG decided to look into establishing a task group to look closer at this area, and the idea was adopted and extended by IFIP TC8 the following year. After the arrangement of several workshops, this task group has been the driving force behind the arrangement of MOBIS IFIP TC 8 Working Conference on Mobile Information Systems held in Oslo, Norway, 15-17 September 2004. The objective of the working conference was to provide a forum for researchers and practitioners interested in planning, analysis, design, construction, modification, implementation, utilization, evaluation, and management of mobile information systems to meet and exchange research ideas and results. Specifically, we tried to use the working conference to clarify differences and similarities between the development of mobile vs. more traditional information systems, investigate organizational impact of mobile information systems, investigate mobile commerce applications combined with the advantages of mobile communications technologies, X Mobile Information Systems, evaluate existing and newly developed approaches for analysis, design, implementation, and evolution of mobile information systems.

Mobile Information Systems: Concepts and Applications Dylan Glover, 2020-09-22 The immense popularity of mobile infrastructures and higher bandwidths of network has radically transformed the way people use information resources. In this context, mobile information systems (MIS) are a pertinent area of study. MIS are information systems that allow the access to information resources and services with the aid of end-user terminals. These terminals are movable in space and are provided with wireless communication. The advantage of MIS is that they provide new value-added services due to their mobility and flexibility. They also render other services such as user access across multiple devices and channels and the ability to perform collaborative work either in synchrony or otherwise. The book presents researches and studies performed by experts across the globe. Also included in this book is a detailed explanation of the various concepts and applications of mobile information systems. The readers would gain knowledge that would broaden their perspective about this field.

Design, Operation and Evaluation of Mobile Communications Gavriel Salvendy, June Wei, 2021-07-03 This conference proceeding LNCS 12796 constitutes the thoroughly refereed proceedings of the 2nd International Conference on Design, Operation and Evaluation of Mobile Communications (MOBILE 2021) which was held as part of the 23rd HCI International Conference (HCII 2021) as a virtual event due to COVID-19 in July 2021. The total of 1276 papers and 241 posters included in the 39 HCII 2021 proceedings volumes were carefully reviewed and selected from 5222 submissions. MOBILE 2021 includes a total of 27 papers they were organized in topical sections named Designing Developing and Evaluating Mobile Interaction Systems and User Experience Acceptance and Impact of Mobile Communications Encyclopedia of Mobile Computing and Commerce Taniar, David, 2007-04-30 The Encyclopedia of Mobile Computing and Commerce presents current trends in mobile computing and their commercial applications Hundreds of internationally renowned scholars and practitioners have written comprehensive articles exploring such topics as location and context awareness mobile networks mobile services the socio impact of mobile technology and mobile software engineering CORP 2011 Proceedings/Tagungsband Manfred Schrenk, Vasily V.
