Primary Science and Technology Di Bentley, Mike Watts, 1994 This book explores the ways in which science and technology can take place in the early and middle years at school At the heart of the book are a number of case studies of actual practice drawn from primary schools in action These studies contribute to a theoretical approach grounded in childrens learning and are used in exploring the real problems of planning management organization teaching and learning as classroom practitioners try to implement new curriculum directives The chapters examine the nature of learning experiences the practice of teaching teaching for specific skills the role of the specialist coordinator assessment and record keeping scientific and technological problem solving and working for equal opportunities The authors draw on their own wide experience in science education and upon their work with teachers in primary classrooms Aspects of Teaching

Secondary Science Sandra Amos, Richard Boohan, 2003-09-02 This book s structure reflects the different dimensions to learning science The first section focuses on the importance of talk in the science classroom while the second explores the key role of practical work The third section is concerned with the creative theoretical aspect of science Section four follows this by considering the communication of ideas and how pupils learn to participate in the discourse of the scientific community Section five emphasizes the place of science in the broader context considering its moral and ethical dimensions and its place in a cultural context Finally section six explores the complexity of the task faced by science teachers highlighting the knowledge and skills science teachers must acquire in order to create an environment in which students are motivated to learn science Problem Solving in Science and Technology Roehampton Institute, 1994 Problem solving has been identified as a core skill in the National Curriculum This work aims to extend the application of problem solving techniques in science and technology teaching across the phases of education primary secondary and further education
