Multilingual Self An Inquiry Into Language Learning:

The Multilingual Self Natasha Lvovich, 2013-01-11 This book relates the author's stories about how languages have integrated her being and defined and formed her sense of self. The idea of writing autobiographical stories of her multilingual life came from her long-term commitment to foreign language teaching and from a recent, extremely rich and valuable experience teaching English to immigrants in the U.S. While reading and studying various aspects of second language-related theory, linguistics, psychology, anthropology, and sociolinguistics literature, the author realized how estranged language learners are from all the research, speculations, hypotheses, and achievements of scholarship. A Russian immigrant, the author tells stories to her ESL students to help them understand why and at what price successful language acquisition and acculturation is realistic. Not only can students learn from her stories, which encourage discoveries about their own behaviors or problems, but they might want to respond and tell about their own struggles with a foreign language. By becoming writers and interpreters of her text and by making it their own, students can construct their own virtual texts. The stories told throughout are those of a language learner who is also a linguist and language teacher. As such, they can bridge the gap between second language research and practical teaching and learning. Moreover, this book can help initiate language learners along with their teachers into scholarship. Second language teachers and graduate students preparing for a teaching career might see this book as an illustration and validation of the studied theory and an inner voice of their students at the same time. Multidisciplinary by nature, it can also be used in several college courses such as cultural anthropology, anthropology, and sociolinguistics, sociology, multicultural education, ethnography, bilingualism, and the study of immigrant experience. There are numerous applications of the book in the educational field at various levels of adult learning programs, which might be determined by the objectives and by the instructor's vision of it in the curriculum. It is also intended as a message to the general public and to all thinking individuals in search of identity. It will popularize the idea of the importance of foreign language learning, language education, linguistic literacy, and metalinguistic awareness of illuminating self-discovery through the treasure of multilingual experience, capable of giving birth to a new, sophisticated, spiritually complex, and enriched multicultural identity.

The Multiple Realities of Multilingualism Elka Todeva, Jasone Cenoz, 2009-12-15 This book is the very first collection of first-person language learning narratives that offers rich introspective data on the various processes and forces shaping the development and maintenance of multiple languages, seven and more, in a single individual. The writers are twelve multilinguals who have been influenced by quite different contextual factors and who have learned a wide range and combination of dialects and languages from both similar and very different linguistic families. The combinations explored in the narratives include some lesser-known languages that come from under-researched areas such as the African continent, certain parts of Asia, the Middle East, and Eastern Europe. Also unique are two theoretical chapters which analyze the narrative data against the background of language development research findings within several thematic areas multiple language learning as a complex dynamic system the influence of bilingualism multilingualism on the acquisition of additional languages cross linguistic influence and also emotions motivation and identity The aim of this juxtaposition and analysis is to allow a meaningful comparison of the extent to which etic researcher generated and emic learner offered perspectives match or diverge and to identify new questions that the emic data may add to research agendas The book is an excellent resource not only for researchers but also for teachers as well as for students of language at the graduate and undergraduate level

Manual of Language Acquisition Christiane Fäcke, 2014-08-25 This manual contains overviews on language acquisition and distinguishes between first and second language acquisition It also deals with Romance languages as foreign languages in the world and with language acquisition in some countries of the Romance speaking world This reference work will be helpful for researchers students and teachers interested in language acquisition in general and in Romance languages in particular

Researching Identity and Interculturality Fred Dervin, Karen Risager, 2014-09-19 This volume focuses on advances in research methodology in an interdisciplinary field framed by discourses of identity and interculturality It includes a range of qualitative studies studies of interaction narrative studies conversation analysis ethnographic studies postcolonial studies and critical discourse studies and emphasizes the role of discourse and power in all studies of identity and interculturality The volume particularly focuses on critical reflexivity in every stage of research including reflections on theoretical concepts such as identity and interculturality and their relationship with methodology and analytical practice reflections on researcher identity and subjectivity reflections on local and global contexts of research and reflections on language choice and linguacultural aspects of data generation analysis and communication

Intercultural Competence Past, Present and Future María Dolores López-Jiménez, Jorge Sánchez-Torres, 2021-01-08 This book explores the benefits of teaching reflection upon one's own culture to develop intercultural competence and looks into the relationship between the proficiency level of the second language and the target culture It introduces new debates on the concept of critical cultural awareness in intercultural learning and teaching for example the indiscriminate use of terminologies related to the idea of intercultural encounters Also it provides insight into the relationship between language and culture using a new tool such as the Autobiography of Intercultural Encounters through Visual Media The presentation of different approaches tools barriers educational and cultural realities online intercultural exchange projects and concepts such as motivation attitudes stereotyping otherization and critical cultural awareness makes this book an excellent instrument not only for teachers but also for researchers policy makers and private and public institutions that want to explore culture and interculturality and to promote an intercultural competence and global citizenship among its learners users clients and or an interculturally oriented language education
