Regulating Procurement:

Regulating Procurement Peter-Armin Treppe, 2004 The Internationalization of Government Procurement Regulation Aris Georgopoulos, Bernard Hoekman, Petros C. Mavroidis, 2017-02-16

As governments are major buyers of goods and services foreign companies are keen to be able to participate in procurement opportunities on an equal footing with national firms This has given rise to the inclusion of procurement disciplines in trade agreements and to internationally agreed good regulatory practices in this important policy area The contributions to this book examine how the dynamic mix of bilateral regional plurilateral and international norms on government procurement is reflected in purchasing practices at the national level and whether these are leading to convergence in policies and approaches The countries studied span both advanced high income economies and emerging economies Some are members of the WTO procurement agreement others are not Most WTO members have decided not to commit to binding international disciplines on procurement in trade agreements This book explores whether there has been nonetheless internationalization of good procurement practices and what current public purchasing processes suggest as regards the value added of signing on to binding rules of the game in this area The approach taken in the volume is interdisciplinary Contributors include economists political scientists legal scholars and practitioners with a solid understanding of both the extant international disciplines and national government procurement policies Each chapter assesses the current state of play as regards legislation and procurement practices the degree to which industrial policy considerations feature in the relevant regulatory frameworks the existence and use of domestic dispute resolution and review procedures that allow firms to contest the behavior of procuring entities and the availability of data on procurement processes and outcomes

Public Procurement Regulation in (a) Crisis? Sue Arrowsmith, Luke RA Butler, Annamaria La Chimia, Christopher Yukins, 2021-11-04

This timely book provides the first systematic analysis of global public procurement regulation and policy during and beyond the COVID 19 pandemic Through both thematic chapters and national case studies this book explores the adequacy of traditional legal frameworks for emergency procurement examines how governments and international organisations have responded specifically to the pandemic and considers how the experience of the pandemic and the political impetus for reform might be leveraged to improve public procurement more broadly Public procurement has been critical in delivering vital frontline public services both in the health sector and elsewhere with procurement of ventilators protective equipment and new hospitals all hitting the headlines At the same time procurers have faced the challenge of adjusting existing contracts to a new reality where for example some contracted services can no longer operate Further efficient and effective procurement will be an essential and not a luxury in the economic recovery With case studies on Italy the UK the USA India Singapore Africa Latin America and China the book brings together the world's leading academics and practitioners from across Europe the Americas Asia and Africa to examine these issues providing an essential resource for policy makers legislators international organisations and academics This title
