Expanding Reading Comprehension in Grades 3-6 Katherine A. Dougherty Stahl, Georgia Earnest García, 2022-03-29

Students in grades 3-6 need to use increasingly sophisticated comprehension skills and strategies as they read and build knowledge across disciplinary content areas. Grounded in research, this book presents effective practices for integrating literacy instruction with literature, science, and social studies. Chapters address text selection, vocabulary development, strategy instruction, discussion formats, writing to express and expand comprehension, assessment, and more. Ways to meet the needs of emergent, bilingual, and culturally diverse students are highlighted throughout. Ideal for preservice and inservice teachers and professional staff development, the book includes classroom vignettes, text boxes with easy-to-read instructional procedures, and curriculum resources. Helpful reproducible forms can be downloaded and printed in a convenient 8 1/2 x 11 size. See also the authors' related book on the primary grades: Developing Reading Comprehension: Effective Instruction for All Students in PreK-2.

Reading for Information in Elementary School Nancy Frey, Douglas Fisher, 2007. Reading for Information in Elementary School: Content Literacy Strategies to Build Comprehension was written to give K-5 teachers the tools they need to lay an educational groundwork that promotes students' success with informational text from the early grades. Packed with research-based, classroom-proven strategies, the book follows a before-during-and-after-reading format that models the most effective approach to reading for information, focusing on the processes required to develop content literacy. You'll meet the teachers sitting in on their lessons, witness their students' responses, and come away from this book with a model for teaching your students to read successfully for information and a handbook of proven strategies to implement. Features examples of instructional strategies. This book follows six elementary teachers, grades K-5, as they utilize strategies with informational texts. These examples are detailed and include student and teacher dialogue to provide readers with the sense they are watching the lesson unfold. Each focus instructional strategy is research-based. The instructional strategies outlined in this book have a research base and have been implemented in schools across the country. Margin notes provide readers with additional information and resources. Readers are referred to other sources of information at common places that they may have questions. A clear process for organizing instruction is provided. The strategies and texts presented in the book follow the before-during-after instructional organization used by teachers to foster reading comprehension. Book covers informational texts. Each chapter features the covers and bibliographical information of some of the best informational texts available today.

Teaching Reading in Today's Elementary Schools Paul Clay Burns, Betty D. Roe, Elinor Parry Ross, 1992 Grade level 1
2 3 4 5 6 7 k p e i t The Pre-instructional and Reading Comprehension Strategies Special Education Teachers Use to Engage and Instruct Elementary Student Readers with ASD Murfet Amean Alnemr, 2020 Lyon 1998 called reading critical to a child's overall well being Given the ubiquity of text in their lives today reading skills can help students lead productive meaningful lives But what about elementary student readers with ASD Senokossoff 2016 argued that in addition to the social and emotional difficulties that children with ASD experience many also struggle with reading comprehension Research indicates that students with ASD can face deficits associated with self regulation and sensory overload associated with visual hearing and touch and this can threaten learning and comprehension Bogdashina 2003 Thus it could be argued that pre instruction strategies focused on visual hearing and touch concepts may be used to prepare students for reading comprehension instruction and have a positive impact on achievement for student readers with ASD Founded on this consideration this study sought to identify a connection between pre instruction strategies and reading comprehension for students with ASD A multiple case study approach was applied to this qualitative study I used interviews and observations to collect data from four special education teacher participants in four different Midwest elementary schools Interview transcriptions field notes and an observation checklist comprised the data to be analyzed Interviews made of open ended questions sought to uncover and understand the pre instruction and reading comprehension strategies special education teachers used with the student readers with ASD Questions focused on visual hearing and touch based strategies which I referred to as pre instruction strategies Computer Based Interventions CBI and reading comprehension strategies Observations were conducted in the classroom prior to and during reading instruction and guided by an observation checklist developed following teacher interviews Observations were designed to link strategies discussed during interviews with those used during real time classroom instruction Each observation sought to determine if special education teachers used pre instruction strategies to prepare their students for reading comprehension instruction as well as to observe those strategies used for reading instruction Analysis of the data led to findings which suggest that while special education teachers tend to believe in the benefits of and make pre instruction strategies available to students with ASD in their classrooms they do not apply these strategies in the preparation of reading comprehension instruction Findings also shed light on the types of reading comprehension strategies teachers use in their classrooms which are framed through the lens of the existing studies and the What Works Clearinghouse as well as the ways teachers implemented reading strategies often optimizing their efficacy through strategy combinations My study revealed significant gaps in the literature and led to recommendations encouraging future studies which examine larger populations possibly nationwide those which include participants who work with and instruct student readers with ASD outside of the classroom such as parents librarians and museum educators studies which include more participatory observations over a longer period of time studies which examine pre instruction and reading comprehension instruction strategies for middle and high school readers with ASD and how if special education teachers collaborate with school occupational therapists to prepare students for reading instruction
