Ages and Stages of Literacy Development

Many parents wonder if their child's reading skills are developing at the normal rate. While there are individual differences, there is a general progression of skill development. It is recommended that if your child has not attained the skills outlined for his/her age, that a school based meeting be scheduled. Following this, it is likely that a referral to a specialist (e.g. Speech and Language Pathologist) may be necessary to provide an in-depth check on your child's development. Research clearly states that the earlier intervention commences the better the outcomes for the child.

1 Year Olds Start to Discover "Writing" Around Them

- They become intrigued in the print on signs, labels and may come to recognise some of these in particular.
- They may recognise some of words by their context, those they often understand that they are read from left to right, from left to right and by looking at the print within the text or pictures.
- They may understand that someone else is writing for communication (they'll look and bring books for making the reading situation purpose in the game and for a host of other purposes).
- Through language play, 1 year olds start to know that letters and letters and may learn to recognise and name some.
- Story telling as they are important for them. They will often start to know that just repeating and retelling to explaining their experiences and telling stories.

2 Year Olds Start to Discover the Sounds of "Writing"

- They begin to focus on the sounds within words (phonology of words) and focus on how to separate and join words. They may delight in words and phrases for the fun rather than meaning of words.
- They continue to make progress in writing and representing letters. They may start to write their own name and this will be done before and during a "writing" game and stories.
- They will be able to write sentences about themselves in stories. They stories about how to help to follow.

4 to 5 Year Olds Start to Figure Out How the Alphabet Works

- They begin to see the beginning and end sounds (e.g. 'cat' starts with /k/)
- They know that the sounds they hear at the start and end of words are represented by separate letters (e.g. /k/ at the start of 'cat' is represented by c).
- They are able to tell stories without words.

5 to 6 Year Olds Start Formal Literacy Learning

- Learn to use all the alphabetic letters sounds with accuracy and with speed.
- Learn to "read aloud" words and describe what reading about (words, sentences and paragraphs).
- Incorporated to demonstrate their comprehension skills and discuss how they have used it that have been read to them.
- Initially writing is primarily in context. Over the year children integrate early phonics concepts such as sound, k, ng, m, an, at as all of our words are made.

Children in Year 2 Start to Apprehend Automatic Processes

- The challenge in Year 2 is to continue fluency. This means reading becomes "effortless" through less and less of reading practice that children become fast and accurate readers.
- Writing becomes more automatic and less "fiddly" as children integrate early word structure such as the way it is used in writing.

Children in Year 3 and above are Required to Focus on Comprehension, Writing and the Curriculum

- Children are required to read and write at length and with volume now. Children are increasingly expected to read silently rather than aloud and are increasingly expected to write independently.
- The content of reading material becomes much more complex and the focus of reading shifts to developing comprehension skills.
