Object Perception:

Object Perception Bryan E. Shepp, Soledad Ballesteros, 2013-04-15 This collection of research on object perception focuses on holistic and featural properties of objects the mechanisms that produce such properties how people choose one type of property over another and how such choices are improved during the course of child development The contributions consider alternative perceptual characterizations the way in which such properties are represented in the mind how particular properties are more useful in some kinds of tasks that humans perform and how the developing child learns to cope with different properties in choosing among alternatives to optimize task performance These papers were written by specialists for specialists in experimental cognitive and developmental psychology

From Fragments to Objects Thomas F. Shipley, Philip J. Kellman, 2001-11-30 This book addresses the problem of how the human visual system organizes inputs that are fragmented in space and time into coherent stable perceptual units objects In doing so it addresses the following questions what kinds of segmentation and grouping abilities exist in human perceivers What information and computational processes achieve segmentation and grouping What are the psychological consequences of perceiving whole objects From Fragments to Objects Segmentation and Grouping in Vision takes a comprehensive cognitive science approach to object perception brings together separate lines of research in object perception in one volume gives an integrated and up to date review of theory and empirical research and offers directions for future study Jacket

Multisensory Object Perception in the Primate Brain Marcus Johannes Naumer, Jochen Kaiser, 2010-07-03 It should come as no surprise to those interested in sensory processes that its research history is among the longest and richest of the many systematic efforts to understand how our bodies function The continuing obsession with sensory systems is as much a reflection of the fundamental need to understand how we experience the physical world as it is to understand how we become who we are based on those very experiences The senses function as both portal and teacher and their individual and collective properties have fascinated scientists and philosophers for millennia In this context the attention directed toward specifying their properties on a sense by sense basis that dominated sensory research in the 20th century seems a prelude to our current preoccupation with how they function in concert Nevertheless it was the concentrated effort on the operational principles of individual senses that provided the depth of understanding necessary to inform current efforts to reveal how they act cooperatively We know that the information provided by any individual sensory modality is not always veridical but is subject to a myriad of modality specific distortions Thus the brain's ability to compare across the senses and to integrate the information they provide is not only a way to examine the accuracy of any individual sensory channel but also a way to enhance the collective information they make available to the brain

The Oxford Handbook of Developmental Psychology, Vol. 1 Philip David Zelazo, 2013-01-15 Research in developmental psychology which examines the history origins and causes of behavior and age related changes in behavior seeks to construct a complex multi level characterization of behavior as it unfolds in time across a range of time scales from the milliseconds of reaction time to the days and weeks of childhood the decades of the human lifespan and even beyond to multiple generations Behavior in this view is embedded within what is essentially a dynamic system of relations extending deep within individuals Thorough and engaging this handbook explores the impact of this research on what is now known about psychological development from birth to biological maturity and it highlights the extent to which the most cutting edge developmental science reflects a new kind of intellectual synthesis one that reveals how cultural social cognitive neural and molecular processes work together to yield human behavior and changes in human behavior With insightful contributions from more than 50 of the world s leading developmental scientists these two volumes will serve as an influential and informed text for students and as an authoritative desk reference for years to come

The Perceptualist Edward John Hamilton,1899 Active Vision John M Findlay,Iain D Gilchrist,2003-08-07 More than one third of the human brain is devoted to the processes of seeing vision is after all the main way in which we gather information about the world But human vision is a dynamic process during which the eyes continually sample the environment Where most books on vision consider it as a passive activity this book is unique in focusing on vision as an active process It goes beyond most accounts of vision where the focus is on seeing to provide an integrated account of seeing AND looking The book starts by pointing out the weaknesses in our traditional approaches to vision and the reason we need this new approach It then gives a thorough description of basic details of the visual and oculomotor systems necessary to understand active vision The book goes on to show how this approach can give a new perspective on visual attention and how the approach has progressed in the areas of visual orienting reading visual search scene perception and neuropsychology Finally the book summarises progress by showing how this approach sheds new light on the old problem of how we maintain perception of a stable visual world Written by two leading vision scientists this book will be valuable for vision researchers and psychology students from undergraduate level upwards

Taking a hands-on approach: Current perspectives on the effect of hand position on vision Philip Tseng, Christopher Davoli,2015-10-05 An exciting new line of research that investigates the impact of one s own hands on visual processing has flourished in the past several years Specifically several studies have demonstrated that objects near the hands receive prioritized attention enhanced perceptual sensitivity altered figure ground assignment prolonged and detail oriented processing and improved visual working memory Taken together these results demonstrate that the visual system reveals a new pattern of processing when one s hands are in proximity of viewed objects Therefore the vast majority of studies on visual processing in which one s hands are kept away from the stimuli may constitute but one side of a more complex story of the inner workings of the visual system With several consistent behavioral demonstrations of hand altered vision now in the literature the present challenge facing this growing field and the aim of this Research Topic is four pronged 1 Isolate and elucidate the underlying cognitive and neural mechanisms of hand altered vision 2 Map the parameters and conditions of hand nearness that permit prevent the onset or maintenance of hand altered vision 3 Determine the consequences of hand altered vision for higher level cognition and assess its applied potential e.g. as a neuropsychological intervention and 4 Present a cohesive and predictive theoretical account of hand altered vision We welcome submissions that fit into any one or a combination of the above domains For behavioral research we particularly encourage submissions that are relevant to the advancement of our understanding of the neural mechanisms of hand altered vision e.g. demonstrations that might corroborate or disconfirm proposed neural systems
