The novel introduces a reflective observer who notes the presence of a reserved philosopher and a composed woman aboard a steamer. Their quiet demeanor conceals histories shaped by introspection, missed chances, and emotional restraint. As past and present converge, conversations between the philosopher and the observer reveal a landscape filled with unacknowledged longing and unresolved emotion. The philosopher's connection to a distant figure, secluded in a country estate, slowly becomes central to his renewed sense of purpose. Through his disclosures, the story gestures toward the enduring presence of earlier affections, the burdens of decision, and the intricate balance between personal truth and social appearances. The novel explores how people contend with regret, the temptation of resolution, and the risk of emotional exposure. The early chapters provide a portrait of emotional containment set against the backdrop of rural isolation and private retreat, laying the foundation for a quiet but persistent confrontation with identity, affection, and responsibility. Rest Harrow Maurice Hewlett, 2017-05-11 Excerpt from Rest Harrow A Comedy of Resolution How d ye do how d ye do He held out his land Senhouse m and grasped it The Italiantookofi his hat andstrolled away About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
