Neotropical Birds:

Neotropical Birds Douglas F. Stotz, 1996-06 This unparalleled wealth of finely detailed ecological information on Neotropical bird communities will prove invaluable to all Neotropical wildlife managers conservation biologists and serious birders

Ecology and Management of Neotropical Migratory Birds Deborah M. Finch, Thomas E. Martin, 1995 The apparent decline in numbers among many species of migratory songbirds is a timely subject in conservation biology particularly for ornithologists ecologists and wildlife managers This book presents a full discussion of the problem

Manual of Neotropical Birds Emmet R. Blake, 1977 Neotropical Migratory Birds Richard M. DeGraaf, John H. Rappole, 1995 Thrushes warblers vireos and tanagers are probably the most familiar of the Neotropical migrants birds that breed in the United States and Canada then journey to spend the winter in the Caribbean Mexico or southward But this extraordinary group actually comprises a large number of diverse species including waterfowl shorebirds terns hawks flycatchers and hummingbirds In their compendious review of information on these birds Richard M DeGraaf and John H Rappole illuminate the need for a thorough understanding of the ecology of each species one that extends throughout the entire life cycle The authors argue convincingly that conservation efforts must be based on such an understanding and carried out across a species range not limited to the breeding grounds This book is the first to summarize in one volume much needed practical data about the distribution and breeding habitat requirements of migratory birds in North and South America The body of the book consists of natural history accounts of more than 350 species of Neotropical migrants including a brief description of each bird s range status habitats on breeding grounds nest site and wintering areas The authors provide a complete range map of each species distribution in the Western Hemisphere as well as notes on the distribution basic data that until recently have largely been unavailable in usable form to ornithologists and land and resource managers An appendix lists species that are increasing or decreasing at significant rates in various physiographic regions of North America

Manual of Neotropical Birds, Volume 1 Emmet Reid Blake, 1977-07-01 Containing more than one third of the world s bird species the neotropical region surpasses all other zoogeographic regions in the diversity of its avian fauna Though the exploration and cataloging stages of ornithology are now virtually complete new species and undescribed subspecies of birds are still occasionally discovered In this manual Emmet R Blake has drawn on his experience of forty eight years in the field and laboratory to prepare a comprehensive detailed and authoritative synopsis of the avifauna of tropical America as now known

Behavioral Ecology of Neotropical Birds Juan Carlos Rebores, Vanina Dafne Fiorini, Diego Tomás Tuero, 2019-04-24 This book covers central aspects of behavioral ecology including sexual selection social and genetic mating systems cooperative breeding brood parasitism brood reduction migration personalities and communication Over the past several years Neotropical bird species from temperate to tropical latitudes of South America have been extensively studied yielding valuable insights into the evolutionary mechanisms that drive their behavioral traits In this book international experts provide a general overview of main behavioral aspects They also present the main findings of their work including experimental approaches to testing the most accepted behavioral theory in their model systems In closing they propose new theoretical frameworks and future research directions As such the book provides a comprehensive and updated guide for all researchers students and professionals whose work involves the study and management of birds across the Neotropical region

Neotropical Birds, 1996 Bird communities are sensitive indicators of habitat type and condition Therefore careful ornithological surveys can provide quick practical assessments of the ecological characteristics and conservation status of many terrestrial communities in the tropical Americas This volume provides the data essential to the success of such surveys It compiles for the first time information on the ecological and geographical distributions of all 4 037 bird species of the

Critical Notes on the Types of Little-known Species of Neotropical Birds Carl Eduard Hellmayr, 1913

Molt in Neotropical Birds Erik I. Johnson, Jared D. Wolfe, 2017-10-16 Molt is an important avian life history event in which feathers are shed and replaced The timing duration seasonality extent and pattern of molt follows certain strategies and this book reviews and describes these strategies for nearly 190 species based on information gathered from a 30 year study of Central Amazonian birds Most species accounts are illustrated with several color photos focusing on wing and tail feather molt molt limits and how to use these patterns to accurately age birds Published in collaboration with and on behalf of the American Ornithological Society this volume in the highly regarded Studies in Avian Biology series is a rich source of life history information for ornithologists working on tropical birds

Neotropical Birds of Prey David F Whitacre, 2013-03-01 Until recently surprisingly little has been known about the biology and behavior of tropical forest raptors including such basic aspects as diets breeding biology habitat requirements and population ecology information critical to the development of conservation efforts The Peregrine Fund conducted a significant eight year long research program on the raptor species including owls in Tikal National Park in Guatemala to learn more about Neotropical birds of prey Impressive and unprecedented in scale this pioneering research also involved the development of new methods for detecting enumerating and studying these magnificent but often elusive birds in their forest home Beautifully illustrated with photographs of previously little known species the resulting book is the most important single source for information on the lowland tropical forest raptor species found in Central America Neotropical Birds of Prey covers twenty specific species in depth including the Ornate Hawk Eagle the Barred Forest Falcon the Bat Falcon and the Mexican Wood Owl offering thorough synopses of all current knowledge regarding breeding biology and behavior diet habitat use and spatial needs Contributors to this landmark work also show how the populations fit together as a community with overlapping habitat and prey needs that can put them in competition with reptiles and mammalian carnivores as well yet differ from one another in their nesting or feeding behaviors and population dynamics The work's substantive original data offer interesting comparisons between tropical and temperate zone species and provide a basis for establishing conservation measures based on firsthand research Making available for the first time new data on the biology ecology behavior and conservation of the majestic owls and raptors of the New World tropics this book will appeal to a wide ornithological readership especially the many raptor enthusiasts around the world Key Areas for Threatened Birds in the Neotropics David C. Wege,Adrian J. Long,1995-10-17 Approximately 3 600 bird species occur in the 21 countries of mainland Central and South America of which 290 are listed as threatened Taking a country by country site based approach this book documents the 596 most important areas for the conservation of these threatened birds Introductory chapters define Key Areas and the distribution of threatened species describe habitats threats and conservation and identify the gaps in our knowledge of Neotropical birds

Neotropical Owls Paula L. Enriquez,2017-07-24 This book presents a comprehensive biological and ecological information about owls in the neotropic area In addition the book covers topics such as threats and conservation strategies for these nocturnal birds of prey from 18 Neotropical countries Owls are a good example of diversification processes and have developed evolutionary characteristics themselves These species are found almost everywhere in the world but most of them are distributed in tropical areas and about a third of them live in the Neotropics This biogeographic region has a high biodiversity and even share lineages of species from other continents because at some point all were part of Pangea Although we still have much to know and understand about this diverse scarcely studied and threatened group this work aims to be a precedent for future and further research on the subject
