

LECTURE NOTES: CHILD STUDY

1. Concept of Child Study

A Child Study is a detailed, systematic, and in-depth examination of an individual child or a group of children within their natural context. It is a holistic approach that seeks to understand a child's unique pattern of development, learning, behavior, and interactions.

Key Elements:

1. Holistic: It considers all aspects of a child's development – physical, cognitive, social, emotional, and language.
2. Systematic: It follows a structured procedure from observation to reporting.
3. Contextual: The child is studied within their specific environments (e.g., classroom, home, playground) because behavior is influenced by context.
4. Diagnostic and Formative: The primary goal is not to label, but to understand the child's strengths, needs, and challenges to provide appropriate support and guidance.
