Modernization: Poland and Eastern Europe in the 16th-20th Centuries Jacek Kochanowicz,2018-01-31 The subject of this book is the economic backwardness of Poland and Eastern Europe in the modern era The studies in the first part analyse various aspects of the region s economic and social history in the period from the 16th to the 20th centuries such as the nature of peasant economics the character of economic evolution and the ambiguity of social and economic relations between Poland and the West The second part deals with the change following the fall of state socialism Papers in this part argue that for understanding the present it is necessary to take into consideration historical legacies It is also important to look at the process of this recent change comparatively both within Eastern Europe and comparing this region with other parts of the world Professor Kochanowicz s contention in these essays is that the so called transformation has had to cope not only with the effects of state socialism but also with a much longer legacy of backwardness Long-term Structural Changes in

Transforming Central & Eastern Europe Roland Schönfeld,Tibor Iván Berend,1997 Central and Eastern Europe,

1944-1993 Tibor Iván Berend,1996 An ambitious comparative analysis of Eastern Bloc economies during a period of revolutionary change The Human Geography of East Central Europe David Turnock,2003-10-04 The Human Geography of

East Central Europe examines the geography of the transition economies that were not formerly part of the Soviet Union Albania Bosnia Hercegovina Bulgaria Croatia The Czech Republic Hungary Macedonia Poland Romania Slovakia Slovenia Yugoslavia and East Germany There is a thematic treatment beginning with the landscape and historical background which moves on to the social and economic geography industry agriculture and infrastructure and to issues concerning regional development and environmental protection East Central Europe and the Former Soviet Union David Turnock,2024-11-01 Since 1898 the former communist countries of Eastern Europe have gained international prominence The continuing socio economic transition and the instability evident in areas like the Caucasus and Former Yugoslavia have drawn the western world into uneasy interactions with the region At the same time closer commercial and cultural contacts are providing opportunities for rewarding relationships which have now resulted in many of these countries joining the EU This book provides detailed coverage of the transition from communism to a market economy Covering the whole range of East Central European and former Soviet Union countries it charts the diversity within the region offering in depth coverage of specific areas as well as a broad view of development across the region The book is organised into three comprehensive sections the historical socio economic and environmental The socio economic section considers the critical issues of restructuring to effect the transition from central planning to a market economy while the historical material provides an essential context for the constraints and opportunities affecting the region The environmental section places emphasis on results of environmental neglect inherited from communism as well as looking to the future implications of EU directives on the problems of biodiversity and pollution in the region

The Emerging New Regional Order in Central and Eastern Europe Tadayuki Hayashi,1997 Structural Change and Unemployment in Central and Eastern Europe Michael C. Burda,1994 Central and Eastern Europe Nikolai Genov,1998 Challenges of Transformation and Transition from Centrally Planned to Market Economies Kempe R. Hope,1998 Südosteuropa-Studien ,1960 The Journal of European Economic History ,2003 Postsocialist Transformations and Civil Society in a Globalizing World Hans-Peter Meier-Dallach, Jakob Juchler,2002 In social sciences the notion of civil society has gained much attention The growing and diversifying of a civil sector is evident in Western states As a value in itself it can be interpreted as an important prerequisite for modern societies to optimise the more and more complex task of problem solving But the question arises if the definition and outlook of civil society is challenged as vision as well as reality in non Western states confronted with different problems and possessing different structural and cultural historical roots Therefore the central issue of the book is the development the importance and the functioning of the civil sector in the post socialist countries of Eastern Europe The second directly connected issue is the question about the character of the post socialist transformations and the diversity of development paths The last issue is the question about the role of regions the struggle between decentralising and centralising forces and the problem of the social identity in new states This book aims to illustrate the diversity of developments looking at special cases and by comparative analysis

Evolution of the Hungarian Economy, 1848-1998: One-and-a-half centuries of semi-successful modernization, 1848-1989 Tibor Iván Berend,János Kornai,2000 This volume is a major contribution to Hungarian economic history since the middle of the nineteenth century In this first volume of three on the evolution of that economy the authors focus on the beginnings of the modern capitalist economy 1848 1914 on economic nationalism 1918 1944 and on the socialist attempt at modernization 1945 1989

The Transformation of Eastern Europe Jozef M. van Brabant,1994 Transformation Processes in Eastern Europe Wolf-Dieter Eberwein,1992 The collected essays in this book deal with scientific experiments about a real one the transition from communism to democracy and the transformation of command to market economies in Central and Eastern Europe In the first part of the volume core issues involved in the breakdown and transformation of these nations are raised among others the sequencing of economic reforms and conditions leading to political system breakdown and reconstruction Simulation models in economics and political science which might be useful to explore systematically the complexity and dynamics of transformation processes are reviewed Simulation experiments using such models are presented in the second part analyzing alternative developmental paths of the societies in Central and Eastern Europe Will some of the Eastern European nations be able to integrate into the world economy How will Poland achieve the transition from a supply to a demand driven economy What are the implications of the transition to democracy for the former GDR for political stability And to what extent will the former GDR economy be able to catch up with that of the former FRG Finally data availability and quality for systematically reconstructing past developments and analyzing present trends is discussed in detail

National Borders and Economic Disintegration in Modern East Central Europe Uwe Müller, Helga Schultz, 2002

The Enlargement of the European Union Toward Central Europe and the Role of the Japanese Economy János Hoós, Kumiko Haba, Tibor Palánkai, 2002

Cohesive Growth in the Enlarging Euroland Michael Dauderstädt, 2001

Back to a Market Economy József Temesi, Ernő Zalai, István Ábel, 1999

In this text the authors analyze the way Hungary has recovered economically over the last decade Their answers to the sophisticated conceptual questions of the Hungarian transformation procedure are far from a simplified view of the recent situation The past ten years are characterized by achievements and failures hopes and disappointments economic results and social problems
