The sport of running has come a long way for amateur runners as race registrations and collective miles logged are at an all time high Along with this running boom comes an overabundance of information found in online articles and magazines some of which is often contradictory How do we piece it together and make sense of it all Using a conversational tone that makes the information easy to digest The Art of Run Training offers practical knowledge in three foundational areas psychology physiology and an effective approach for improved run mechanics As a successful coach over the past decade Mike Hamberger raises runners abilities and enhances their confidence to do so Some of the other notions highlighted in this book include

- 1 Running should be 10% mental not 90%
- 2 Switching running shoes will not change run mechanics
- 3 The instruction to run with short quick strides does more harm than good
- 4 Garmin watches or other GPS devices hamper running performance
- 5 Humans have better form when running fast not slow
- 6 The surging popularity of half marathons and marathons is causing most injuries
- 7 The need for a longer more strenuous off season phase than most runners attempt
- 8 A runner should not use a race as a training run

Whether you are a coach or simply taking the do it yourself approach The Art of Run Training is a useful guide that blends science with a decade s worth of professional observations from the field so you ll gain new perspectives on the mental approach to training and racing For example you ll learn improved methods for correcting running form and teaching proper foot strike as well as the reason why many people struggle to make these corrections The Art of Run Training is packed with knowledge that is less commonly discussed within the running community

The Science and Practice of Middle and Long Distance Running Richard Blagrove, Philip Hayes,2021-03-29

The popularity of distance running as a sport and a recreational activity is at an all time high Motivated by the desire to achieve a personal best remain healthy or simply complete an event distance runners of all ages and abilities actively seek out advice from experienced coaches and sport scientists This is also reflected in the growth of programmes of education for young coaches and aspiring sport scientists in recent years There are a multitude of different approaches to training distance runners however the basic principles and ingredients required for success are applicable to any distance runner The science that underpins the training and physical preparation of distance runners has developed considerably in recent years The most experienced and successful coaches in the distance running community rarely have the opportunity to share their tried and tested methods of training Similarly the novel work of sport scientists is often only accessible to elite runners their support teams and academia The Science and Practice of Middle and Long Distance Running links together the science and coaching artistry associated with preparing distance runners for events ranging from 800 m up to ultra marathon distances It combines the latest scientific evidence published by world leading sport scientists with the sound training principles and strategies adopted by experienced coaches The book translates cutting edge scientific research from the fields of physiology biomechanics psychology and nutrition into practical suggestions for achieving success Important topical issues and contemporary practices related to health and performance are also addressed This book is an essential addition to the library of any distance runner coach or sport scientist Practical running psychology, 1978 Health Psychology in Practice Susan Michie, Charles Abraham, 2008-04-15 Published by Blackwell in association with the British Psychological Society Health Psychology in Practice provides a comprehensive overview of the UK professional Stage 2 Qualification in Health Psychology An essential text for professional training in health psychology both for trainees and teachers and supervisors contributing to health psychology courses Published in association with the British Psychological Society Covers the core competencies necessary for qualification as a health psychologist Includes sections on professional issues research consultancy and interventions teaching and training and other professional roles The final chapter contains a series of individual commentaries on health psychology training in a variety of countries which will be of great interest to an international audience The editors helped to establish the British Psychological Society's health psychology professional training programme Readings in Educational Psychology Charles Edward Skinner, Ira Morris Gast, Harley Clay Skinner, 1926 Practical Psychology Edward Stevens Robinson, 1926 Universal Access in Human-Computer Interaction.
