The exciting Extreme locations

- What sports do young people enjoy in?
- What extreme sports are popular in your country?

Extreme sports, also known as action sports or adventure sports, are sports characterized by their high speeds and level of risk. Lots of people take part in these activities all over the world, and they can be practised in the air, on the water or on land. Read on to find out about some extreme sports!

Land

The most popular place to take part in a variety of sports, and surfing just happens to be a popular extreme sport in plenty of coastal countries, but most primarily in Australia and the United States. You need a surfboard and the latest fashion. You need a surfboard and a surfboard. Along with your gear means, if you're local, waves. Waves are with slippers. Don't panic, because they're too small to ride, so it's better to wait until the tide is high enough to jump on your board and go into the water.

While water skiing with an expert look at you, but a common practice around the globe, other divers prefer to break out and do what's known as free diving, in which they try to swim as deep as possible in one single breath with no extra equipment to help them. In fact, this sport is so dangerous that it was once declared the world's second most extreme sport. We think we'll stick to taking our breath in the swimming pool for now.

If you're not into surfing, you can try skydiving. Skydiving is a sport where you jump out of a plane and fall for a while before opening your parachute. It's a very exciting sport, and you can enjoy it in many different ways. You can try it once, or you can become a professional skydiver. You can also try it with a friend, or you can try it with a group. It's a great way to have fun and enjoy the outdoors.

Extreme Sports

Water

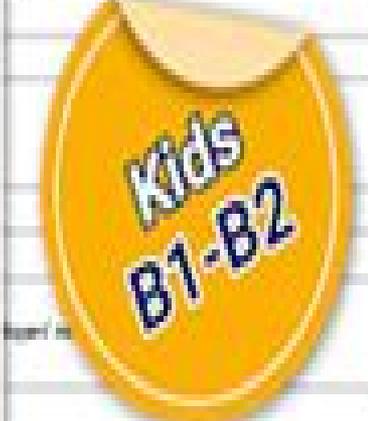

The best always look a little bit like they're high up in the sky, right? Maybe not so long going back just in reality as they are through the air, with no solid alternative risk. Generally, long jumping is when you use an air glider (without a motor) to come through the air using your body movements to control the flight. If you're not used to the activity, it's not your sport, so you need lots of time to make your first landing.

On the other hand, bungee jumping is one of the world's most exciting extreme sports as you can arrange to do it pretty much anywhere. There are a wide range of companies who organise trips to groups in all your own. Stop on your safety equipment and you're off! (and in particular, London is a highly popular destination for bungee jumping enthusiasts as it's a great opportunity to see the city from up there.)
