Courtney, Paul W. Armstrong, Amanda McKay, 2024-11-11 Critical Education Leadership and Policy Scholarship explores the relationships between education leadership and policy whilst showcasing the advancement of a new methodology for exploring education leadership from a critical perspective Learning to Read

Critically in Educational Leadership and Management Mike Wallace, Louise Poulson, 2003-01-28 In Learning to Read Critically in Educational Leadership and Management Mike Wallace and Louise Poulson provide students with an eminently usable text. Although the theoretical underpinnings and conceptualizations of leadership issues invariably differ, this book provides a lucid guide to plumbing their ambiguities. Educational Review This is a book that should be regarded as essential reading for those students following courses in education and social policy, particularly as masters level. International Journal of Educational Management I bought this book just a few days ago and I was surprised to realise the simple and yet scientific way it is written. I have started my postgraduate studies in Educational Management and this book will definitely make things easier. I would like to cordially thank Professor Wallace and Mrs Louise Poulson for this book which will help the majority of the students who enter the labyrinth of postgraduate research and surely need a kind of instruction manual to start. Amazon Review One of the most useful books that I have come across for my students. Professor Les Bell, Director of Doctorate of Education, University of Leicester. Very impressed with the first chapter. Have recommended it to our research department for use with our graduate students. Thorough and practical. Philip Hallinger, Executive Director of the College of Management, Mahidol University, Thailand. This unique book combines the teaching quality of a text with exemplary reports of small scale and larger research studies, as well as a literature review by leading academics. Part One shows how to develop as a critical reader and self-critical writer of literature and how to apply these insights in planning a written assignment, dissertation or thesis. The book provides a framework for the critical analysis of any text and shows how to incorporate this in a literature review. Part Two presents accounts of leading edge research offering insights into key issues in the field of educational leadership, management and administration. The reader is invited to practice literature review skills by applying the critical analysis questions to any research report. Readers can use the models of good research practice presented here in their own design of an investigation for a dissertation or thesis. Part Three shows how a high quality literature review may be constructed and addresses a key issue in the field. Contributors include Sharon Kruse, Karen Seashore, Louis Kenneth Leithwood, Phillip Hallinger and Ronald Heck, Derek Glover and Rosalind Levacic, Ray Bolam. This book will be useful to postgraduate students on research based masters and doctorate courses in educational leadership, management and administration. It is relevant for students doing research training in the social sciences and humanities. It can also be used as a teaching resource by supervisors of masters and doctorate level students. This series, edited by Mike Wallace, supports research based teaching on masters and taught doctorate courses in the humanities and social sciences fields of enquiry. Each book is a three in one text designed to assist advanced course tutors and dissertation supervisors with key research based teaching tasks and aims to develop students' critical understanding of research literature, increase students' appreciation of what can be achieved in small scale investigations similar to those which they undertake for their dissertation, and present students with major findings, generalisations and concepts connected to their particular field. Questioning

Leadership Gabriele Lakomski, Scott Eacott, Colin W. Evers, 2016-11-10 Questioning Leadership offers a diverse mix of cutting edge research in the field of educational leadership with contributions from expert and emerging leadership scholars. It contextualises school leadership within broader social and historical contexts and traces its influence on school performance through time from its relatively modest role within a systems theory paradigm to its growing influence from the 1980s onwards as exercising leadership came to be perceived as being largely responsible for improving educational outcomes. This book invites the reader to challenge the current orthodoxy of leader centrism and instead reflect more broadly on the various structural and institutional interrelationships that determine how a school functions successfully. It poses challenging questions such as: Is leadership really necessary for high quality school performance? Can schools function effectively without leadership? Is it possible to describe the work that principals do without using the word leadership? How do we challenge the assumption that leadership simply exists and that it is seen as the appropriate default explanation for school performance? This book does not assume that leadership is the key to organisational performance although it acknowledges the work that principals do. It goes against current orthodoxy and offers varied perspectives on how leadership might be repositioned vis vis organisational and institutional structures. It also suggests some new directions for leading and learning and throws open a discussion on leadership that for too long has been captured by the assumption that the leader is the cause of organisational performance and learning outcomes in schools. At a time when leadership's dominance seems unshakeable, this is a bold book that should appeal to postgraduate students of educational leadership and management, those undertaking training in educational administration and current school leaders interested in exploring the value of leadership for educational organisations.

Narratives of Educational Leadership Denise Mifsud, 2021-12-15 This book documents and deconstructs the concept of educational leadership within various education settings originating from diverse global environments. It focuses on presenting different readings of educational leadership via distinct theoretical and methodological applications. It takes forward the idea of critical leadership studies and uses creative analytic practices to present layered readings of educational leadership. The book offers leadership studies dealing with various education settings across a wide spectrum with international perspectives. It provides examples of educational narratives through somewhat unconventional modes of representation. This book is beneficial to readers interested in the study of educational leadership and using qualitative methodologies in educational research.

Participatory Action Research for Educational Leadership E. Alana James, Margaret T. Milenkiewicz, Alan Bucknam, 2007-07-17 Follow the author on Twitter. Alana James has a new twitter feed titled AR4Everything which covers action research and reports on interesting facts. Finally we have a data driven text on participatory action research for educational leaders. Through thoughtful examples and guided instruction, this text makes the case that the complex issues of today and tomorrow require multifaceted, rigorous and results oriented processes best undertaken through partnerships between educators and the communities they serve. Darlyne Bailey Dean and Assistant to
