Representing The Holocaust:

Representing the Holocaust in Children's Literature Lydia Kokkola, 2013-10-15 Writing about the Holocaust and writing for young readers evoke two quite separate sets of concerns which are not always mutually compatible The first half of Representing the Holocaust focuses on how literary material can present historically verifiable material The second half examines how such materials will be perceived by young readers whether they will be able to determine any boundaries between fictionality and factuality and what motivates young readers to keep reading The work concludes by placing the study in the context of Holocaust education

Representing the Holocaust Dominick LaCapra, 1994 Representing the Holocaust is an impressive book that will have a significant impact on the way historians think about the Holocaust and the writing of history LaCapra's precise and probing study explores the ways that the traumatic event inevitably disrupts the relationship between representation and memory He writes from the deep conviction that whatever historians might believe theory is indispensable for them Indeed his work best exemplifies the value of theory setting a standard for historiographical reflection that is not easily matched Anson Rabinbach The Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art

Representing the Holocaust Sue Vice, 2003 Focusing upon central issues in Holocaust studies this collection of essays by British scholars charts British concerns surrounding the Holocaust It also honours the academic Bryan Burns and the work he carried out on the Holocaust

Representing the German Nation Mary Fulbrook, Martin Swales, 2000-12-15 Modern Germany with its ruptures from late unification in 1871 through to the formation of two opposing German states provides a case study for an analysis of the issue of representations of identity in Germany since the war

Disciplining the Holocaust Karyn Ball, 2008-10-22 Disciplining the Holocaust examines critics efforts to defend a rigorous and morally appropriate image of the Holocaust Rather than limiting herself to polemics about the proper approach to traumatic history Karyn Ball explores recent trends in intellectual history that govern a contemporary ethics of scholarship about the Holocaust She examines the scholarly reception of Goldhagen's Hitler's Willing Executioners the debates culminating in Eisenman's Memorial to the Murdered Jews of Europe in Berlin Lyotard's response to negations of testimony about the gas chambers psychoanalytically informed frameworks for the critical study of traumatic history and a conference on feminist approaches to the Holocaust and genocide Ball's book bridges the gap between psychoanalysis and Foucault's understanding of disciplinary power in order to highlight the social implications of traumatic history

Film and the Holocaust Aaron Kerner, 2011-05-05 A sweeping survey of how global filmmakers have treated the subject of the Holocaust

The Holocaust, a literary inspiration? Sarah Ruhnau, 2010 Seminar paper from the year 2009 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1.7 Ruhr University of Bochum Englishes Seminar course Jewish American Literature language English abstract In the following paper I would like to examine to what extent the Holocaust is appropriate as a literary inspiration I will cite Art Spiegelman's comic strips MAUS I and MAUS II with focus on the latter as examples since they are two of the most extraordinary works among Holocaust literature and art In general I want to demonstrate that Adorno's thesis about the impossibility of writing about the Holocaust is not true By giving the example of Spiegelman's MAUS it should be made clear that it is even possible to use the Holocaust as some kind of inspiration in a fairly unusual way

Making Sense of the Holocaust by Means of Backward Narration Thomas Neumann, 2008-05-06 Seminar paper from the year 2007 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Literature grade 1.0 University of Augsburg course Literature and the Holocaust language English abstract The problem of finding appropriate ways to represent the Holocaust has been haunting Holocaust literature ever since Theodor Adorno's famous dictum that there cannot be any poetry after Auschwitz In fact the uniqueness of the Holocaust raises serious ethical questions whether there can be any appropriate representation of these atrocious events at all As the horror of Auschwitz goes beyond human imagination the problem boils down to the one question How can you imagine the unimaginable Martin Amis's novel Time's Arrow or the Nature of the Offence 1991 has a rather bold answer to this question by narrating it backwards In the novel the story of the Nazi doctor Odilo Unverdorben is narrated vice versa following his life from end to start through the eyes of a ghostlike narrator who emerges at the point of his death As the technique of backward narration distinguishes Time's Arrow from almost any other Holocaust fiction in the following my focus will be on the novel's use of narrative reversal to represent the Holocaust I will argue that the technique of backward narration offers a way to make sense of the Holocaust and Nazism in general thereby showing that the novel's form and content are inseparably linked In order to do this I will first go over some of the negative criticism that Time's Arrow was exposed to focusing on the problem of form and content I will then show how backward narration offers a solution to specific problems in Holocaust literature and how it helps to avoid the danger of aestheticising Auschwitz After that I will point out that backward narration can help to understand the Holocaust exploring the connections between Nazism and the temporal and moral reversal effected by narrative reversal Finally I will examine the influence of Robert Jay Lifton's The Nazi Doctors on Time's Arrow By applying Lifton's theory of psychological doubling to the novel the close connections between form and content will once again be highlighted

Representing the Unimaginable Angela Stock, Cornelia Stott, 2007 Papers presented at a conference held at the Univ of Munich in May 2003

Representing the Catastrophic Aaron Kerner, 2007 The study analyzes the way in which cultures represent and make sense of catastrophic events through the medium of the visual arts This work should appeal to scholars interested in art history film studies cultural studies and psychoanalysis to disavowal the event by referring to it as unimaginable or otherwise such events are assigned to the domain of fiction or fantasy For example in response to 9/11 and the images of the planes flying into buildings many responded it was like I was watching a movie How then when our knee jerk response is to assign catastrophic events to the incomprehensible or the domain of utter fantasy do we convey the reality of these events What rhetorical strategies are at our disposal when we no longer have an immediate relationship to them When the last survivors of these catastrophic events are gone how will we relate to representations of these events What rhetorical strategies will prove most useful in conveying the historical significance of these events even when the physical traces are gone This book addresses these questions Representing the Unrepresentable Yvonne Sabine Unnold,2002 The Pinochet dictatorship in Chile infringed on human rights and engaged in torture killing and persecution Although strict censorship under his regime limited literary representation testimonial works by survivors and witnesses serve as an informant of the trauma inflicted upon the Chilean people Representing the Unrepresentable Literature of Trauma under Pinochet in Chile presents some of these works opening the path to a new understanding of alternative representation of history its sociopolitical perspective and role in society today

The Representation of the Holocaust in Literature and Film Marc Lee Raphael,2003 Holocaust Poetry Antony Rowland,2005 Under the umbrella term Holocaust poetry this book argues that distinctions need to be made between the writing of Holocaust survivors and those who were not involved in the events of 1933 to 1945 This study focuses on the post Holocaust writers Sylvia Plath Geoffrey Hill Tony Harrison and Ted Hughes while also stressing the links between them and the Holocaust poetry of Paul Celan Miklos Radnoti Primo Levi and Janos Pilinszky Contemporary Responses to the Holocaust Konrad Kwiet,Jurgen Matthaues,2004-11-30 Fourteen experts address issues of Holocaust representation interpretation and remembrance in rapidly shifting landscapes of memory A manual of scripture history: an analysis of the historical books of the Old Testament Walter John B. Richards,1880 The Holocaust: Readings and Interpretations Joseph Mitchell,Helen Buss Mitchell,2001 The Holocaust Readings and Interpretations raises important questions related to the study of the Holocaust and offers potential answers to these questions through interpretive essays from the field s leading scholars many with differing opinions and points of view The book emphasizes the complexity of the subject while it seeks to provide an understanding of an historical event that for many people still defies comprehension Although the attempted annihilation of European Jews by Hitler s Third Reich occurred between 1933 and 1945 the roots of antisemitism are at least two millennia old Each of the book s nine chapters raises relevant questions regarding the Holocaust its historical context the factors which made it possible its victims and perpetrators responses to it by individuals groups and nations issues of gender and the philosophical and theological implications The concluding section of the book explores the latest scholarship in the field through analysis and evaluation of the topics which attract historians today emerging global order also assesses the attempts by revolutionary regimes in the region to create alternative models of development and the reasons for their failure
