Reading Texts Kathleen McCormick, Gary Waller, Linda Flower, 1987 Reading-to-write Linda Flower, 1990 The Social and Cognitive Studies in Writing and Literacy Series is devoted to books that bridge research theory and practice exploring social and cognitive processes in writing and expanding our knowledge of literacy as an active constructive process as students move from high school to college This descriptive study of reading to write examines a critical point in every college student's academic performance when he or she is faced with the task of reading a source integrating personal ideas and creating an individual text with a self defined purpose Offering an unusually comprehensive view of this process the authors chart a group of freshmen as they study and write in their dormitories recording their think aloud strategies for reading writing and revising their interpretation of the task and their broader social cultural and contextual understanding of college writing Flower Stein and colleagues convincingly conclude that the legacy of schooling in general makes the transition to college difficult and more important that the assumptions students hold and the strategies they use in undertaking this task play a significant role in their academic performance Embracing a broad range of perspectives from rhetoric composition literacy research literary and cultural theory and cognitive psychology this rigorous analysis treats reading to write as both a cognitive and social process It will interest researchers and theoreticians in rhetoric and writing teachers working with students in transition from high school to college and educators involved in the links between cognition and the social process Adapted from the Original Laurence Raw, 2018-08-28 Critics and audiences often judge films books and other media as great but what does that really mean This collection of new essays examines the various criteria by which degrees of greatness or not so are constructed whether by personal political or social standards through topics in cinema literature and adaptation The contributors recognize how issues of value vary across different cultures and explore what those differences say about attitudes and beliefs Encyclopedia of Contemporary Literary Theory Irene Rima Makaryk, 1993-01-01 The last half of the twentieth century has seen the emergence of literary theory as a new discipline As with any body of scholarship various schools of thought exist and sometimes conflict within it I R Makaryk has compiled a welcome guide to the field Accessible and jargon free the Encyclopedia of Contemporary Literary Theory provides lucid concise explanations of myriad approaches to literature that have arisen over the past forty years Some 170 scholars from around the world have contributed their expertise to this volume Their work is organized into three parts In Part I forty evaluative essays examine the historical and cultural context out of which new schools of and approaches to literature arose The essays also discuss the uses and limitations of the various schools and the key issues they address Part II focuses on individual theorists It provides a more detailed picture of the network of scholars not always easily pigeonholed into the categories of Part I This second section analyses the individual achievements as well as the influence of specific scholars and places them in a larger critical context Part III deals with the vocabulary of literary theory It identifies significant complex

terms places them in context and explains their origins and use Accessibility is a key feature of the work By avoiding jargon providing mini bibliographies and cross referencing throughout Makaryk has provided an indispensable tool for literary theorists and historians and for all scholars and students of contemporary criticism and culture Reclaiming Pedagogy Patricia Donahue,1989 Besides the editors the essayists are Lori Chamberlain Michael Clark Dennis A Foster Jon Klancher Randall Knoper Elaine O Lees Mariolina Salvatori and Nina Schwartz Donahue and Quandahl present accessible and exciting efforts to explore composition teaching in a new mode perhaps a pristine paradigm of cultural criticism Approximately half of the essays investigate the pedagogical agenda implied in the theories of a particular writer Barthes Lacan or Burke for example and place such theories in the classroom The remaining essays examine pedagogy as a critical practice The book does not advocate a single method of instruction but instead reminds us that theory is itself continually modified by the classroom

Reading Their World Virginia R. Monseau,Gary M. Salvner,2000 Reading Their World 2 e and its companion CD ROM provide the most extensive examination of young adult literature available today Read and Respond Janet R. Swinton,William J. Agopsowicz,2003-11 The Fourth Edition of this popular combination text anthology integrates reading and writing skills The approach of Read and Respond is unique students are assessed for comprehension through summary writing rather than objective testing After summarizing an article students write a personal response Because the summary and personal response are written in the students own words the instructor gains valuable insight into their vocabulary and writing ability As a result students develop proficiency in reading writing and critical thinking The new edition retains the best features of the previous editions It integrates reading and writing offers step by step progression includes models exercises and activities in each chapter and provides additional readings for practice New features include the following A new improved two color format plus overview maps of each chapter A new introductory chapter discussing the reading process and main types of reading tasks A new chapter offering a wide variety of methods to improve both general and specialized vocabulary The addition of content area readings and or excerpts from a college textbook in every chapter New articles for student reading practice in a new chapter entitled Additional Readings An increased emphasis and clarification of student goals outcomes and benefits The addition of self check review questions at the end of each chapter to help students review key concepts and consider personal applications of those concepts The Fourth Edition is complemented by a revised Instructor s Manual which provides an answer key for all activities proposed syllabi for a quarter and for a semester as well as teaching suggestions and strategies

The Shapes We Need Kurt Rowland,1965 Discusses how the shapes of man made objects reflect the technological achievement functional awareness and visual language of a particular society and era

International Companion Encyclopedia of Children's Literature Peter Hunt,Sheila G. Bannister Ray,1996 The Encyclopedia offers comprehensive and international coverage of children s literature from a number of perspectives theory and critical approaches types and genres context applications and individual country essays Read Reflect Respond 2

Elliot Quinley, Janice Greene, 2015-05-20 The CCSS emphasizes nonfiction as an essential component to any successful reading program. The reading selections in Read Reflect Respond introduce students to the framework of content rich nonfiction. Students connect to the text exploring their own experiences, opinions, and prior knowledge. They will quickly become familiar with the various kinds of responses required to the comprehension questions including thinking critically about the material. This familiarity will alert them to important clues in the text reading material. They will learn to focus on the main idea, key vocabulary, and important facts. Each book contains 54 two-page content rich nonfiction articles and comprehension questions plus two super lessons. Answer keys are in the back of each book. Read and Respond Janet R. Swinton, William J. Agopsowicz, 1992 The book provides the reader with a step by step reading method. She will learn how to state the main idea and details of an article in her own words and how to develop a summary. Her summary then becomes a measure of how much she understands of what she read. She is also given the opportunity to respond to the author that is to write her personal reaction to the author's ideas. By summarizing what she has read and responding to it she becomes a better reader. The articles in the book were chosen primarily by students from popular magazines and newspapers these nonfiction articles represent a wide variety of styles and topics. Pref Beyond the Corporate University Henry A. Giroux, Kostas Myrziades, 2001 Prominent scholars in this book move boldly beyond critique to show how and why the critical functions of a democratically informed civic education not merely professional training must become the core of the university's mission. They show why higher education must address what it means to relate knowledge to public life and social responsibility to the demands of critical citizenship. Moreover they show why democratic forms of education and various elements of a critical pedagogy are vital not only to individual students but also to our economy and our democratic institutions and future leadership. Wiant, 2012-10-25 Today more and more ethnically, culturally, and linguistically diverse students enroll in our college and university courses. These diverse multilingual students enrich our campuses and at the same time present challenges. Who are these students? What skills do these diverse students need to be successful in college? How can faculty help them succeed? For faculty in all disciplines seeking answers to these questions this is an essential book. This text provides practical advice on how to assist these students with academic tasks and how to help them to succeed in the academy.
