in which these three performing arts institutions developed and thrived The War for Korea, 1945-1950 Allan Reed Millett, 2005 When the major powers sent troops to the Korean peninsula in June of 1950 it supposedly marked the start of one of the last century's bloodiest conflicts In volume 1 Allan Millett however reveals that the Korean War actually began with partisan clashes two years earlier and had roots in the political history of Korea under Japanese rule 1910-1945 In volume 2 he shifts his focus to the twelve month period from North Korea's invasion of South Korea on June 25 1950 through the end of June 1951 the most active phase of the internationalized Korean War

A Nice Derangement of Epistemes John H. Zammito, 2004-02-15 Since the 1950s many philosophers of science have attacked positivism the theory that scientific knowledge is grounded in objective reality Reconstructing the history of these critiques John H. Zammito argues that while so-called postpositivist theories of science are very often invoked they actually provide little support for fashionable postmodern approaches to science studies Zammito shows how problems that Quine and Kuhn saw in the philosophy of the natural sciences inspired a turn to the philosophy of language for resolution This linguistic turn led to claims that science needs to be situated in both historical and social contexts but the claims of recent science studies only deepened the philosophical quandary In essence Zammito argues that none of the problems with positivism provides the slightest justification for denigrating empirical inquiry and scientific practice delivering quite a blow to the discipline postmodern science studies Filling a gap in scholarship to date A Nice Derangement of Epistemes will appeal to historians philosophers philosophers of science and the broader scientific community
