Sampling And Statistical Methods For Behavioral Ecologists:

Sampling and Statistical Methods for Behavioral Ecologists Jonathan Bart, Michael A. Fligner, William I. Notz, 1998-12-10 This 1998 book describes the sampling and statistical methods used most often by behavioral ecologists and field biologists. Written by a biologist and two statisticians, it provides a rigorous discussion together with worked examples of statistical concepts and methods that are generally not covered in introductory courses and which are consequently poorly understood and applied by field biologists. The first section reviews important issues such as defining the statistical population and the sampling plan when using non-random methods for sample selection, bias, interpretation of statistical tests, confidence intervals, and multiple comparisons. After a detailed discussion of sampling methods and multiple regression, subsequent chapters discuss specialized problems such as pseudoreplication and their solutions. It will quickly become the statistical handbook for all field biologists. Statistical Methods for Field and Laboratory Studies in Behavioral Ecology Scott Pardo, Michael Pardo, 2018-03-05 Statistical Methods for Field and Laboratory Studies in Behavioral Ecology focuses on how statistical methods may be used to make sense of behavioral ecology and other data. It presents fundamental concepts in statistical inference and intermediate topics such as multiple least squares regression and ANOVA. The objective is to teach students to recognize situations where various statistical methods should be used, understand the strengths and limitations of the methods, and to show how they are implemented in R code. Examples are based on research described in the literature of behavioral ecology, with data sets and analysis code provided. Features: This intermediate to advanced statistical methods text was written with the behavioral ecologist in mind. Computer programs are provided, written in the R language. Datasets are also provided, mostly based at least to some degree on real studies. Methods and ideas discussed include multiple regression and ANOVA, logistic and Poisson regression, machine learning, and model identification, time to event modeling, time series, and stochastic modeling, game theoretic modeling, multivariate methods, study design, sample size, and what to do when things go wrong. It is assumed that the reader has already had exposure to statistics through a first introductory course, at least, and also has sufficient knowledge of R. However, some introductory material is included to aid the less initiated reader. Scott Pardo, Ph.D., is an accredited professional statistician (PStat) by the American Statistical Association. Michael Pardo is a Ph.D. candidate in behavioral ecology at Cornell University, specializing in animal communication and social behavior.
