

Modern Idealism

- The founder of modern Idealism is Bishop George Berkeley (1685-1753).
- Berkeley argued against Hobbes' Materialism. He argued that the conscious mind and its ideas and perceptions are the basic reality.
- Berkeley believed that the world we perceive does exist. However that world is not external to and independent of the mind.
- The external world is derived from the mind.
- However, there is a further reality beyond our own minds. Since we have ordered perceptions of the world which are not controlled by an individual's mind, they must be produced by God's divine mind.
