

A painting of a scholar in a red robe and black cap standing in a landscape with a full moon. The scholar is in the lower left foreground, looking towards the right. The landscape features rolling hills and bare trees under a dark, cloudy sky. A full moon is visible in the upper center of the sky.

Method In Metaphysics:

Methods in the Philosophy of Science Sophie J Veigl, Adrian Currie, 2025-07-15 A guidebook to methods and methodology encouraging deeper engagement across the philosophy of science and beyond The last twenty years have seen multiple methodological revolutions in the philosophy of science There has been increased diversity concerning the questions asked who asks those questions who the relevant audiences are and what the techniques and tools involved are In Methods in the Philosophy of Science A User's Guide Sophie Veigl and Adrian Currie introduce this range of methods through both practical advice and philosophical reflection Each chapter introduces the reader to a method or set of methods in the philosophy of science discusses its advantages and limitations and provides practical guidance on how to learn skills relevant to applying the method The volume fulfills several critical roles First by introducing and discussing methods in the philosophy of science the collection increases philosophers awareness of methodological options of particular importance for younger scholars who are often not exposed to the diversity of practice Second the collection's practical focus will aid established philosophers in diversifying their own methodological toolkits Third collecting this diversity serves as a ground for philosophical reflection on what we as philosophers take ourselves to be capable of Fourth the collection hopes to increase interdisciplinary links between philosophy and other fields by laying clear the methodological continuity and complement between them

Methods of Metaphysics Alan White, 2019-03-06 Originally published in 1987 This book comprises a critical exposition of the thoughts on metaphysics of the major philosophers of the tradition It introduces the ideas of these philosophers to students but is of interest to teachers as well The author begins with a survey of the metaphysical writings of Plato Aristotle Berkeley Leibniz and Bradley clarifying throughout the relation of their methods and results to those of science He follows this with a careful study of the critical attitudes to metaphysics espoused by Kant Wittgenstein and the Logical Positivists In the final section he scrutinizes the attempts by Collingwood Wisdom and Lazerowitz to rehabilitate metaphysics

Exploration of the Parallels between African and Process Metaphysics Emmanuel Ofuasia,2026-01-01 This book articulates how African metaphysics characterized by force and process metaphysics characterized by becoming are similar on several fronts On the one hand the vitalist and relational characters of African metaphysics have engrossed researchers as unique and original to Africa but they have yet to articulate where this leads processism On the other hand the becoming or event underpinning of process metaphysics which has been the focus of Anglo American processism has not courted deserving academic attention due chiefly to the influence wielded by substance metaphysics This is the primary research gap which the present book magnifies and then addresses while contending for intellectual exchange s among specialists in processism irrespective of the philosophic tradition To accomplish this this book admits intercultural philosophy for assessing the principal claims of some African and process philosophers and to bring them into a conversation with an alternative system of logic in Ezumazu to mediate thought theory and method This effort assists in addressing the history of misrepresentation and distortion which process metaphysics as an under explored tradition has suffered and endured University of California Publications in Philosophy ,1925 Introduction to Philosophy George Thomas White Patrick,1924
