Metaphor and Fields S. Montana Katz, 2013-01-03 Metaphor and Fields is an explanation and demonstration of the value of metaphoric processes and fields in psychoanalysis In this book Montana Katz articulates a future direction for psychoanalysis which is progressively explored taking into account features essential to psychoanalysts of all persuasions clinically and theoretically In this way psychoanalysis is brought into the postmodern future by fashioning an umbrella for the discipline With this umbrella the barriers to mutual understanding may be dismantled and a path permanently forged to the possibility of meaningful international intercultural interdisciplinary and poly perspectival psychoanalytic exchange Metaphor and Fields organically merges work on metaphoric processes with work on fields The use of a framework with metaphoric processes and fields combined exhibits the uniqueness of psychoanalysis and shows how it explores and explains human experience The relational fields of the North American school of relational theory intersubjective matrices self object matrices and the ground breaking work of Madeleine and Willy Baranger are all examples of field concepts that have been successfully employed in theoretical frameworks and clinical technique They show how other schools of thought can be understood as using an implicit field concept The chapters in this book approach the subject from diverse vantage points Taken together they form an intricate web of psychoanalytic thought that moves the scope of psychoanalysis beyond dispute towards the open inclusive discussion of core concepts and technique Metaphor and Fields will be of interest to psychoanalysts psychiatrists mental health clinicians psychologists social workers and a wide academic audience drawn from the fields of philosophy linguistics comparative literature anthropology and sociology

New Maps for Old Mary Gerhart, Allan Melvin Russell, 2016-10-06 This collection of eleven essays written jointly by the authors argues that science and religion should be seen as mutually enriching worldviews with no need of reconciliation The essays are organised in three parts which deal with the definition and development of the concept of metaphoric process and its implications for illuminating what it means to understand something the exploration of the so called bidisciplinary dialogue and the differences and similarities between studying science and religion respectively

Haskell, 1987 This volume is organized around the view that metaphor is an important cognitive process Metaphor can no longer be considered the sole domain of language although this is one important research domain as some of the chapters in the volume demonstrate The chapters reflect the modern history of metaphor and cover many of the ways metaphor is conceptualized and applied The book also explores a number of functions and characteristics and implications of the metaphoric process including that metaphoric processes originate in a sensory motor affective matrix that they may be based in a neurological substrate that they are manifested developmentally in various forms that cognitively the comprehension of metaphor may depend on an abstract featureless conceptual base that they figure significantly in some pathological syndromes and in therapeutic discourse

Divine Transcendence and Immanence in the Work of Thomas Aquinas Harm Goris, 2009 The terms transcendence and immanence are often used casually and as self evident The spatial imagery contained in their meaning determines the way they are understood and used as opposites like there and here As a consequence the two concepts are seen as mutually exclusive when applied to God's being and to his activity and presence in our world and in our history This view on the relationship between God and world is characteristic not only of deism and pantheism but also of theism However in the view of Thomas Aquinas such an opposition cannot adequately capture the central tenets of the Christian faith This book explores Aquinas' thought on transcendence and immanence in his discussions of creation analogy the Trinity grace and Christ and offers interpretations in which God's transcendence and his immanence do not exclude but imply one another

The papers contained in this volume were originally presented at the third international conference of the Thomas Instituut at Utrecht in 2005      Understanding Metaphor in Literature Gerard Steen,1994 It is the aim of this study to present aspects of an empirical theory of metaphor in literary reception and to show how evidence can be collected from readers processing of metaphor in literary texts in order to evaluate how that processing relates to the function of metaphor in literature
