Quercus ilex L. ecosystems: function, dynamics and management F. Romane, J. Terradas, 2013-04-17 Holm oak Quercus ilex L forests and woodlands have been considered as a paradigm for Mediterranean terrestrial ecosystems In the western part of the Mediterranean Basin these forests and woodlands occupy large areas and thus play a very important role in the landscape A number of research projects from the Centre d'Ecologie Fonctionnelle et Evolutive CEFE the Centre de Recerca Ecològica i Aplicacions Forestals CREAM and from many other laboratories are currently focusing on Q ilex ecosystems and a number of problems have appeared concerning not only basic knowledge but also management aspects For this reason the CEFE and the CREAM decided to jointly organize the workshop on Quercus ilex L Ecosystems which was held in Montpellier and Barcelona in September 1990 The present volume consists of a selection of papers presented during the workshop and other papers contributed after the workshop The papers are divided into five sections Biogeography and History Structure Productivity and Dynamics Water Relationships Nutrient Cycling and Management Quercus Ilex L. Ecosystems Centre national de la recherche scientifique (France), Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona. Centre de Recerca Ecològica i Aplicacions Forestals, 1992 Quercus Ilex L. Aplicacions forestals, 1990 The Biology of Mediterranean-Type Ecosystems Karen J. Esler, Anna L. Jacobsen, R. Brandon Pratt, 2018-03-09 The world's mediterranean type climate regions including areas within the Mediterranean South Africa Australia California and Chile have long been of interest to biologists by virtue of their extraordinary biodiversity and the appearance of evolutionary convergence between these disparate regions These regions contain many rare and endemic species Their mild climate makes them appealing places to live and visit and this has resulted in numerous threats to the species and communities that occupy them Threats include a wide range of factors such as habitat loss due to development and agriculture disturbance invasive species and climate change As a result they continue to attract far more attention than their limited geographic area might suggest This book provides a concise but comprehensive introduction to mediterranean type ecosystems It is an accessible text which provides an authoritative overview of the topic As with other books in the Biology of Habitats Series the emphasis in this book is on the organisms that dominate these regions although their management conservation and restoration are also considered Responses of Forest Ecosystems to Environmental Changes A. Teller, P. Mathy, J.N.R. Jeffers, 2012-12-06 This book arises out of a symposium on forest and woodland terrestrial ecosystems which was held in Florence on 20-24th May 1991 It was organised jointly by the Commission of the European Communities CEC and the European Science Foundation ESF in association with the Italian Research Council CNR. The symposium brought together most of the internationally recognized groups working on forest ecosystems including biologists, botanists, ecologists, soil scientists, modellers, foresters and policy makers. All the CEC countries were represented. In addition, there was a broad audience from Eastern and Central Europe and from EFTA countries. Outstanding experts from outside Europe, US, Australia, Canada, Japan, China, etc. were also present. In total, the symposium was attended by more than 500 participants. The structure of this book reflects the main elements of the meeting. As such, it includes three main sections. The first consists of six major state-of-the-art reviews corresponding to the six plenary sessions, each followed by a discussion which has been summarized by rapporteurs. The reviews were prepared to assess critically the state of current knowledge in ecosystem research and to provide a scientific basis both for policy decisions and for further research.

Fluxes of Carbon, Water and Energy of European Forests Riccardo Valentini, 2013-06-29. After years of technological development and its important achievements to make our life easier and more comfortable, human society is going to face one of the most difficult challenges of the last century: to stabilize the concentration levels of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere to prevent harmful effects on the climate system. Through a delicate balance between photosynthesis and respiration, terrestrial ecosystems and in particular forests are today thought to take up a significant part of the carbon dioxide emissions in the atmosphere, sometimes called the terrestrial carbon sink. However, the location, magnitude and vulnerability of the carbon dioxide sink of the terrestrial biota are still uncertain. The suite of traditional tools in an ecologist's toolbox for studying ecosystem productivity and carbon balance include leaf cuvettes, whole plant and soil chambers for gas exchange, and biomass and soil carbon inventories. While each of the cited methods has distinct advantages, they are limited with regards to their ability to measure net carbon dioxide exchange of the whole ecosystem across a variety of time scales. This book presents a compendium of results of a European project EURO FLUX funded by the European Commission through its fourth framework program, aiming to elucidate the role of forests in continental carbon balance.

Encyclopedia of the World's Biomes, 2020-06-26. Encyclopedia of the World's Biomes is a unique five-volume reference that provides a global synthesis of biomes, including the latest science. All of the book's chapters follow a common thematic order that spans biodiversity, importance, principal anthropogenic stressors, and trends, changing climatic conditions, and conservation strategies for maintaining biomes in an increasingly human-dominated world. This work is a one-stop shop that gives users access to up-to-date, informative articles that go deeper in content than any currently available publication. Offers students and researchers a one-stop shop for information currently only available in scattered or non-technical sources. Authored and edited by top scientists in the field. Concisely written to guide the reader through the topic. Includes meaningful illustrations and suggests further reading for those needing more specific information. Ecology of Mediterranean Evergreen Oak Forests Ferran Rodà, 1999. Used by humans since ancient times, evergreen oak forests still cover extensive mountain areas of the Mediterranean Basin These broadleaved evergreen forests occupy a transitional zone between the cool temperate deciduous forest biome and the drier Mediterranean pine forests and shrublands Slow growing and casting a deep shade the sclerophyllous holm oak Quercus ilex absolutely dominates the closed canopy of many Mediterranean evergreen oak forests This is a synthesis of 20 years of research on the structure function and dynamics of holm oak forests in two intensively studied experimental areas in Spain By combining observational measurements at the leaf tree plot and catchment scales with field experiments and modelling the authors explore how these forests cope with strong water limitation and repeated disturbances
