

Characteristics of Effective Foreign Language Instruction

The National Association of District Supervisors of Foreign Languages has identified the following characteristics of effective foreign language instruction. These guidelines provide a basis for common understanding and communication among evaluators, observers, and practitioners in classrooms where foreign/second languages are taught. The Characteristics focus on the students who are the recipients of effective foreign language instruction.

The Characteristics reflect the National Standards for Foreign Language Learning (1996) and focus on the five goal areas of Communication, Connections, Comparisons, Cultures, and Communities. The Characteristics reflect also the importance of language learning strategies, diverse learning styles, the use of authentic cultural documents, and the use of technology as an instructional tool. The Characteristics are a companion resource to the National Standards for Foreign Language Learning, state frameworks, and local curriculum guides.

1. The teacher sets high expectations for all students, designs assessment, and organizes instruction to engage and motivate all learners.
2. The teacher and students communicate purposefully in the target language as listeners, speakers, readers, writers, and viewers.
3. There is more student activity than teacher activity in most lessons. Student activity includes student to student interactions as well as teacher to student interactions. Students work independently, in pairs, and in groups. Students ask and answer questions and they create with language.
4. Students take risks as language learners because the learning environment is positive and supportive.
5. When error correction is appropriate, students are given opportunities, including wait-time, to self-correct. Teacher correction of student errors is often done through follow-up review and re-teaching strategies.
6. Assessments are ongoing. Students are assessed formally and informally on how well they are able to meet the objectives of the lesson. Continuous self-assessments for students and teachers are encouraged.
7. Students use language specific learning strategies and are encouraged to assess their own progress.
8. Culture is a natural component of language use in all activities.

Realizing The Potential Of Foreign Language Instruction:

Realizing the Potential of Foreign Language Instruction, 1990 International Summit on the Teaching Profession Reimagining Education, Realising Potential OECD, 2024-04-26 Students face a future filled with uncertainty and change For education systems to continue to remain relevant they must empower students to navigate these changes and succeed in the future by equipping them with the requisite knowledge skills attitudes and values Teachers are key enablers of this endeavour and it is imperative that governments and teacher organisations collaborate to support teachers in exploring and enacting pedagogies and designing learning environments that support student attainment of future ready competencies through policies processes and teacher professional development

Bridging the Gap between the Abundance of American Higher Education Talent and the Immense Foreign Demand for It Richard J. Joseph, 2022-11-03 The gap between the abundance of American higher education talent and the immense foreign demand for it is the great chasm in global education It is a gulf of lost opportunities It is also a space of great economic potential This book describes the great chasm examines factors underlying it and suggests ways to bridge the gap to realize this potential The abundance of talent stems from the slackening growth of the U S higher education sector in the New Millennium Contributing to the slowdown are flat enrollments adverse demographic trends U S visa restrictions and intensifying competition The immense foreign demand has been fueled by the secular expansion of the global economy It has been shaped by the pressing need in emerging markets to develop an educated workforce The great chasm creates an opportunity for American academic institutions to extend their global reach Bridging the gap however is not an easy feat for most U S colleges and universities It is complicated by an institutional culture that is averse to commercialization an organizational structure that is operationally slow and a governance system that often leads to indecision conflict and paralysis Bridging the gap requires fundamental changes in the culture organization and governance of traditional U S academic institutions These changes will pave the way for international expansion which could enhance the financial well being of these institutions the social well being of less developed nations and the critical role that America plays globally in knowledge creation the dissemination of ideas and the pursuit of the truth
