Mammalian Development:

Growth Factors in Mammalian Development I. Y. Rosenblum, 2021-05-30 The purpose of this volume is to review and discuss key growth factor systems that have been implicated in embryogenesis Emphasis is placed on the insulin family of peptides including insulin and the structurally and functionally related insulin like growth factors The initial chapters provide a review of basic topics including developmental genetics energy metabolism and hormonal signaling mechanisms which are important prerequisites to the central theme that follows The book concludes with a brief review of oncogene expression in early development this new field has contributed significantly to our understanding of how mitogenic signals activate genetic elements responsible for embryonic growth and development This book presents information important to cell biologists endocrinologists biological chemists and developmental biologists Animal Applications of Research in Mammalian Development Roger A. Pedersen, Anne McLaren, Neal L. First, 1991 Recent progress in cell and molecular biology has profound implications for understanding the developmental biology of mammalian embryos The unifying theme of this volume is a cellular and molecular approach to gametogenesis embryogenesis and maternal fetal interactions in the developmental biology of agriculturally significant mammals Great progress has been achieved in our understanding of preimplantation mammalian embryogenesis in laboratory species particularly the mouse through application of cell and embryo culture methods cell biological techniques and more recently recombinant DNA technology A major remaining opportunity is the application of these techniques to problems in domestic species such as improved methods for in vitro growth and maturation of oocytes egg and embryo cryopreservation and genetic manipulation to enhance productivity and herd quality The authors review current knowledge in key areas emphasizing new approaches to unsolved problems in the developmental biology of domestic species Manipulation of Mammalian Development Ralph B.L. Gwatkin, 1986-09-30 Developmental biology has been transformed recently by discoveries in the fields of molecular biology cell biology and immunology New ways of manipulating mammalian development are uncovering control mechanisms and enabling us to apply them in solving practical problems in animal production and human health This book outlines some of these new manipulations and how they have contributed to the present state of developmental biology Chapter 1 describes gene transfer by micro injection of cloned recombinant DNA into zygotes Although the factors that affect transformation frequencies and integration sites are still unknown such techniques offer a number of exciting prospects Research models for human disease could be artificially created and desirable characteristics in agricultural animals could be enhanced The theme of cell to cell transfer is continued in Chapters 2 and 3 Chapter 2 describes pronuclear transplantation by Sendai virus induced fusion of the karyoplast with the enucleated embryo Using this procedure it has been demonstrated that both male and female genomes are essential for normal development although the reason for this is not yet understood Chapter 3 describes studies on the fusion of whole oocytes Mammalian Development Peter Lonai, 1996 This book aims to provide a survey of the developmental biology of mammals Pref Growth Factors in Mammalian Development I. Y.
