Man At The Sharp End

Michael HARWARD

Man At The Sharp End:

The Sharp End John Ellis, 1980 In any army it is only a minority of men who end up as combat soldiers at the sharp end where they have to shoot and be shot at but it is their experiences that are the most intense and reveal most directly what war is actually like John Ellis has drawn together the testimony of men who fought with the British Commonwealth and American armies in all theaters of World War II from Western Europe to Burma and from North Africa to the Pacific He uses these eyewitness accounts to explain how they were trained the different landscapes and climates in which they fought their attitudes and aspirations how they relaxed when they were out of the line and above all how they reacted to the experience of battle

the authorities believed made a fighting man and how evaluations changed as the war dragged on He also brings to light the experiences of those who deliberately claimed disability to avoid service a minority within the large population of rejected volunteers who felt denigrated if not emasculated by their exclusion from duty Works of Charles Lamb Charles Lamb,1876
