Second, Revised, Edition Gerald Roe Crone,1962 Maps and Their Makers University of Glasgow. Library,1974 Renaissance Astrolabes and their Makers Gerard L'E. Turner,2024-10-28 This book is about the archaeology of science or what can be learnt from the systematic examination of the artefacts made by precision craftsmen for the study of the natural world An international authority on historical scientific instruments Gerard Turner has collected here his essays on European astrolabes and related topics By 1600 the astrolabe had nearly ceased to be made and used in the West and before that date there was little of the source material for the study of instruments that exists for more modern times It is necessary to read the instruments themselves and astrolabes in particular are rich in all sorts of information mathematical astronomical metallurgical in addition to what they can reveal about craftsmanship the existence of workshops and economic and social conditions There is a strong forensic element in instrument research and Gerard Turner s achievements include the identification of three astrolabes made by Gerard Mercator all of whose instruments were thought to have been destroyed Other essays deal with the discovery of an important late 16th century Florentine workshop and of a group of mid 15th century German astrolabes linked to Regiomontanus Maps and Their Makers , Maps and Map-makers Ronald Vere Tooley,1978 Information on principal map makers and publishers is given from the earliest times to the 19th century combining an appreciation of the popular decorative side of early maps with historical and bibliographical notes The book which is a guide for students and collectors is organized in national schools covering the whole world Related specialist texts are cited for further study Shapes of Ireland John Harwood Andrews,1997

History of Cartography Leo Bagrow,2017-07-12 This illustrated work is intended to acquaint readers with the early maps produced in both Europe and the rest of the world and to tell us something of their development their makers and printers their varieties and characteristics The authors chief concern is with the appearance of maps they exclude any examination of their content or of scientific methods of mapmaking This book ends in the second half of the eighteenth century when craftsmanship was superseded by specialized science and the machine As a history of the evolution of the early map it is a stunning work of art and science This expanded second edition of Bagrow and Skelton s History of Cartography marks the reappearance of this seminal work after a hiatus of nearly a half century As a reprint project undertaken many years after the book last appeared finding suitable materials to work from proved to be no easy task Because of the wealth of monochrome and color plates the book could only be properly reproduced using the original materials Ultimately the authors were able to obtain materials from the original printer Scotchprints or contact films made directly from original plates thus allowing the work to preserve the beauty and clarity of the illustrations Old maps collated with other materials help us to elucidate the course of human history It was not until the eighteenth century however that maps were gradually stripped of their artistic decoration and transformed into plain specialist sources of information based upon measurement Maps are objects of historical artistic and cultural significance and thus collecting them seems to need no justification simply enjoyment Some Notable Surveyors & Map-makers of the Sixteenth, Seventeenth, & Eighteenth Centuries and Their Work Sir Herbert George Fordham,1929 *Maps and Their Makers, Etc.
