Predication In Caribbean English Creoles Creole Language Library Vol 1:

Predication in Caribbean English Creoles Donald Winford, 1993-01-21 This is the first major study of the conservative or basilectal English creoles of the Anglophone Caribbean since Bailey's 1966 and Bickerton's 1975 descriptions of Jamaican and Guyanese Creole respectively. The book offers a comprehensive unified treatment of the core areas of CEC predication including the verb complex, auxiliary ordering, voice and valency, copular and attributive predication, serial verb constructions and complementation. Particularly note-worthy is its utilization of an extremely rich data base and a variety of sources to provide an up-to-date state-of-the-art account of predicate structures in CEC. The book presents new analyses of several areas of CEC syntax including such phenomena as passivization, serialization and complementation which have not been thoroughly analyzed if at all in the previous literature. The areas covered in the book involve a wide range of grammatical phenomena centering around the various sub-classes of verb and their subcategorization. The book consists of an introduction, a conclusion and six chapters each of which explores some aspect of the behavior of verbs or verb-like predicators and the constructions in which they occur. The book is intended to be a pre-theoretical account of the facts of CEC predication. However, to further elucidate the workings of the grammar and add some degree of explicitness to the description, the author also presents more formal analyses of the grammatical phenomena employing the framework of Generalized Phrase Structure Grammar (GPSG).

The Survey of Pidgin and Creole Languages Susanne Maria Michaelis, Philippe Maurer, Martin Haspelmath, Magnus Huber, 2013 The most authoritative guide ever published to the world's pidgin and creole languages. The 3-volume Survey describes their histories and linguistic characteristics. The Atlas of Pidgins and Creoles published at the same time shows how 130 linguistic features are distributed among the world's languages.

The Syntax of Jamaican Creole Stephanie Durrleman, 2008 This book offers an in-depth study of the overall syntax of basilectal Jamaican Creole, the first since Bailey (1966). The author, a Jamaican linguist, meticulously examines distributional and interpretative properties of functional morphology in Jamaican Creole (JC) from a cartographic perspective. Cinque (1999, 2002), Rizzi (1997, 2004) thus exploring to what extent the grammar of JC provides morphological manifestations of an articulate IP, CP and DP. The data considered in this work offers new evidence in favour of these enriched structural analyses and the instances where surface orders differ from the underlying functional skeleton are accounted for in terms of movement operations. This investigation of Jamaican syntax therefore allows us to conclude that the poor inflectional morphology typical of Creole languages in general and of basilectal Jamaican Creole in particular does not correlate with poor structural architecture. Indeed, the free morphemes discussed as well as the word order considerations that indicate syntactic movement to designated projections serve as arguments in favour of a rich underlying functional map.

Predication in African Languages James Essegbey, Enoch O. Aboh, 2024-07-15 This book discusses patterns of predication and their grammatical and semantic implications in a variety of African languages. It covers several prominent topics about predication in the languages including locative predication expressions of tense aspect and mood in relation to verbal complexes and verb serialisation verb semantics and nominalization of predicates The chapters take inspiration from Felix Ameka's approach to the study of language according to which the main task of a linguist is to collaborate with language users to understand communicative practices in different contexts and to uncover how these practices impact grammatical and semantic aspects of the language Accordingly the descriptions and analyses in this book serve to understand language variation in different ecologies rather than to impose pre established descriptive frames on less described languages Together the chapters in the book represent a bird's eye view of predication strategies in various African languages and can therefore serve as readings for both introductory and advanced level courses on predication from a typological or comparative perspective

Substrate and Adstrate Micah Corum, 2015-04-24 This volume provides a large scale in depth analysis of locative structures in Nigerian Pidgin and Ghanaian Pidgin English and compares those structures to locatives in their lexifier substrate and adstrate languages The work draws on new research methods for investigating substrate and adstrate influence in semantics and creole genesis

Language Issues in Saint Vincent and the Grenadines Paula Prescod, 2015-02-15 This collection is a pioneer study of linguistic phenomena in St Vincent and the Grenadines written by scholars who are both respected in their field of research and connected to the linguistic realities in the geographic area under investigation This book covers the subfields of sociolinguistics discourse analysis ethnography historical linguistics and syntax It concentrates on mainland St Vincent and the Grenadine island of Bequia The volume will appeal to a broad audience including not just specialists in linguistics but also teacher trainers and educators

Traveling Conceptualizations Andrea Hollington, 2015-08-15 Traveling Conceptualizations is a monograph which is concerned with African cultural conceptualizations in Jamaican It contributes to the study of Transatlantic relations between Africa and Jamaica and in particular to the understanding of African influences in Jamaican linguistic practices The book constitutes a first study of these phenomena from a cognitive linguistic perspective and investigates traveling conceptualizations at the intersection of language culture and cognition The author explores Jamaican linguistic practices in different domains namely conceptualizations involving parts of the human body conceptualizations of events roles and relations underlying serial verb constructions and conceptualizations of kinship and names The study can be regarded as an innovative contribution as it looks not only at linguistic expressions on the surface but discusses the underlying cultural and cognitive basis of semantic structures The study thus aims at making African Jamaican connections on the conceptual level visible and also discusses notions of consciousness agency and emblematicity

History, Society and Variation J. Clancy Clements, Thomas A. Klingler, Deborah Piston-Hatlen, Kevin J. Rottet, 2006-07-19 This volume presents a collection of new articles by sixteen specialists in the field of pidgin and creole studies assembled in honor of the world renowned creolist Albert Valdman The articles written from a variety of theoretical perspectives are organized thematically in three sections on the history of specific pidgins or creoles including Louisiana Creole and Haitian Creole on the sociohistorical settings that gave rise to these contact languages and issues affecting their future development and on issues of linguistic variation and change In keeping with Valdman's own primary interests the French based creoles receive the most attention including both those of the Atlantic zone and those of the Indian Ocean but the volume also presents significant scholarship on English and Portuguese based varieties Caribbean Review of Books ,1991 Studies in Language ,1993 The Emergence of Hybrid Grammars Enoch Oladé Aboh,2015-08-27 Children are extremely gifted in acquiring their native languages but languages nevertheless change over time Why does this paradox exist In this study of creole languages Enoch Oladé Aboh addresses this question arguing that language acquisition requires contact between different linguistic sub systems that feed into the hybrid grammars that learners develop There is no qualitative difference between a child learning their language in a multilingual environment and a child raised in a monolingual environment In both situations children learn to master multiple linguistic sub systems that are in contact and may be combined to produce new variants These new variants are part of the inputs for subsequent learners Contributing to the debate on language acquisition and change Aboh shows that language learning is always imperfect learners motivation is not to replicate the target language faithfully but to develop a system close enough to the target that guarantees successful communication and group membership Linguistics and Language Behavior Abstracts ,1994 Language George Melville Bolling, Bernard Bloch,1994 Word ,1997 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,1993 Bulletin international des études créoles ,1995 Whitaker's Books in Print ,1998 Brinkman's catalogus van boeken en tijdschriften ,1996 With 1901 1910 1956 1960 Repertorium is bound Brinkman's Titel catalogus van de gedurende 1901 1910 1956 1960 Title varies slightly Boekblad ,1993-04
