

Jung's Conscious, Subconscious & Unconscious Mind(s)...

Conscious Mind

- Short term memories (limited space in brain)
- Conscious choices you make
- Cannot be hypnotized (see below)

EGO

SubConscious Mind

- Routines we use below awareness (ie. driving on "auto pilot")
- Longer term memories Outside threshold of awareness, but retrievable
- Automatic functions (like breathing) you can control, but often do not
- Access SubConscious to be hypnotized

Self

Not in awareness, but can become so.

Personal Unconscious

- Functions we do not control (blood flow)
- Feelings, thoughts, urges of which the person is Unaware... often in need of healing

Archetypes
(4 + 12)

Anima/Animus

Deep seated beliefs and instincts with which we are born.

Primary 4 Archetypes: Persona, Shadow, Anima, Animus (all of us deal with these)

Additional 12 Archetypes: Ruler, Creator, Sage, Innocent, Explorer, Rebel, Hero, Wizard, Jester, Everyman, Lover, Caregiver

Collective Unconscious - The structure of the psyche... outside the brain

Models Of The Self Consciousness Studies:

Models of the Self Shaun Gallagher, 2013-10-22 A long history of inquiry about human nature and the self stretches from the ancient tradition of Socratic self knowledge in the context of ethical life to contemporary discussions of brain function in cognitive science It begins with a conflict among the ancients On one view which comes to be represented most clearly by Aristotle the issue is settled in terms of a composite and very complex human nature Who I am is closely tied to my embodied existence The other view found as early as the Pythagoreans and developed in the writings of Plato Augustine and Descartes held that genuine humanness is not the result of an integration of lower functions but a purification of those functions in favour of a liberating spirituality The animal elements are excluded from the human essence The modern debate on the problem of the self although owing much to the insights of Locke and Hume can still be situated within the context of the two schools of ancient thought and this has led many to despair over the lack of apparent progress in this problem Today of course we often tend to look to science rather than philosophy to develop our understanding of a wide range of fundamental issues To what extent is the problem of the self a scientific issue Can insights from the study of neuropsychology and cognitive development in infancy provide a new perspective Can the study of schizophrenia and dissociative identity disorders tell us anything about the nature of human self consciousness Many would answer yes to the above questions but then is it not also the case that the study of exceptional self actualised human experience is equally relevant And can the phenomenological tradition dedicated to the systematic study of human experience and contemporary analytic approaches in philosophy help us out of some of the impasses that have bedevilled the empiricist tradition MODELS OF THE SELF includes all these perspectives in an attempt to cast light on one of the most intractable problems in science and the humanities

The Structure and Development of Self-consciousness Dan Zahavi, Thor Grünbaum, Josef Parnas, 2004-01-01 Self consciousness is a topic of considerable importance to a variety of empirical and theoretical disciplines such as developmental and social psychology cognitive neuroscience psychiatry and philosophy This volume presents essays on self consciousness by prominent psychologists cognitive neurologists and philosophers Some of the topics included are the infants sense of self and others theory of mind phenomenology of embodiment neural mechanisms of action attribution and hermeneutics of the self A number of these essays argue in turn that empirical findings in developmental psychology phenomenological analyses of embodiment or studies of pathological self experiences point to the existence of a type of self consciousness that does not require any explicit I thought or self observation but is more adequately described as a pre reflective embodied form of self familiarity The different contributions in the volume amply demonstrate that self consciousness is a complex multifaceted phenomenon that calls for an integration of different complementary interdisciplinary perspectives Series B The SAGE Handbook of Personality Theory and Assessment Gregory J Boyle, Gerald Matthews, Donald H Saklofske, 2008-06-24 This Handbook of Personality Theory and Assessment 2 Volume Set constitutes an essential resource for shaping the future of the scientific foundation of personality research measurement and practice It reviews the major contemporary personality models Volume 1 and associated psychometric measurement instruments Volume 2 that underpin the scientific study of this important area of psychology With contributions from internationally renowned academics this work will be an important reference work for a host of researchers and practitioners in the fields of individual differences and personality assessment clinical psychology educational psychology work and organizational psychology health psychology and other applied fields as well Volume 1 Personality Theories and Models Deals with the major theoretical models underlying personality instruments and covers the following broad topics listed by section heading Explanatory Models For Personality Comprehensive Trait Models Key Traits Psychobiology Key Traits Self Regulation And Stress New Trait And Dynamic Trait Constructs Applications Cognitive Models and Spiritual Maps Jensine Andresen,Robert K.
