Scientific Principles Of Coaching:

Scientific Principles of Coaching John William Bunn, 1955 Principles Of Scientific Coaching , Scientific Principles of Sports Training Dr. A.K. Uppal, 2021-05-17 All activities which are part of human behaviour were subject to a long term development The result of the activity in both examples can be considered a performance Performance is understood as an extent to which motor task is accomplished In the case of the athlete performance is evaluated following rules of the sports discipline which were set in advance it is expressed by the length of the throw and is understood as a sports performance An ability to achieve a given performance repeatedly is referred to as efficiency Sport training is understood as a process of systematic development of each component in dependence on the duration of preparation which leads to achieving maximum efficiency in senior age within the selected sports discipline Sports training focus on cultivating the athlete s personality further it focuses on systematic development of motor abilities and the process of acquiring motor skills within the specific sports discipline It is implemented at different performance and age levels Features of sports training can be found in various forms The aim of sports training is to achieve maximum individual or team efficiency in a selected sports discipline limited by rules To develop the physical education culture it is essential the concept of sports training should be familiar to physical education teachers and coaches Knowing the principles of sports training alone is not enough teachers and coaches should be well versed with the methods and means of sports training so that this knowledge can be successfully applied on the field The personality and professional knowledge of the coach teacher trainer or instructor play a crucial part in the quality of sports training implemented Therefore to meet this principle the coach must be able to integrate pieces of knowledge across the fields like anatomy physiology biomechanics psychology sociology theory of motor learning and didactics The subject of sports training is highly dynamic in nature As a result of constant research new knowledge is being evolved which in turn can be effectively utilized to enable sports persons to enhance their performance capacity and readiness of performance During the recent years some literature in this area has been produces but much of the literature reflects communistic philosophy Therefore there is a dire need to bring out a book on this topic to meet the demand of the students of physical education courses
