ZERO DISCRIMINATION DAY

Zero Discrimination Day is celebrated on March 1st every year. It is a day to remind people that everyone should be treated with kindness and respect. Discrimination happens when someone is treated unfairly because of their race, religion, gender, or abilities. This day encourages people to stand up for equality and make sure that everyone is treated fairly.

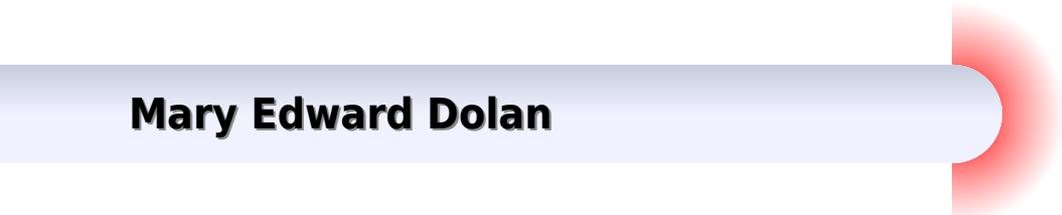

The symbol of Zero Discrimination Day is the butterfly. The butterfly represents change and freedom. On this day, people talk about kindness, respect, and fairness. Schools and communities organize activities to teach about equality and how to treat others with respect. Zero Discrimination Day helps people understand that we are all different, but we all deserve to be treated equally. By being kind and fair, we can make the world a better place for everyone.
