Opera Et Cetera:

Opera Et Cetera Ciaran Carson, 1996 Ciaran Carson is one of Ulster's best and most forceful poets winner of the T S Eliot Prize in 1993 for First Language That collection saw the first airing of a new narrative technique used throughout Opera Et Cetera long lined rhyming couplets echoing Irish ballad metre with its criss cross assonances These innovative new poems contemplate the structure and authority of language The book is framed by two long sequences one based on the letters of the alphabet the other on radio operator's code as distorting mirrors of each other they continually call into question how we tell each other stories all the time Two other sequences complete the book Et Cetera plays with the near moribund vocabulary of Latin tags while Alibi consists of versions from Romanian poet Stefan Augustin Doinas In its juggling with the nuts and bolts of words in its obsessive musical sweep Opera Et Cetera is a tour de force It is also sometimes very funny Poetry Book Society Choice

Writing Home Elmer Kennedy-Andrews, 2008 The idea of place and of being displaced is a powerful leit motif in Northern Irish poetry It is here explored in depth from the 1960s to the present day Ideas of home place and identity have been continually questioned re imagined and re constructed in Northern Irish poetry Concentrating on the period since the outbreak of the Troubles in the late 1960s this study provides a detailed consideration of the work of several generations of poets from Hewitt and MacNeice to Fiacca and Montague to Simmons Heaney Mahon and Longley to Muldoon Carson Paulin and McGuckian to McDonald Morrissey Gillis and Flynn It traces the extent to which their writing represents a move away from concepts of rootedness and towards a deterritorialized poetics of displacement mobility openness and pluralism in an era of accelerating migration and globalisation In the new readings of place inherited maps are no longer reliable and home is no longer the stable ground of identity but seems instead to be always where it is not The crossing of boundaries and the experience of diaspora open up new understandings of the relations between places a new sense of the permeability and contingency of cultures and new concepts of identity and home Professor ELMER KENNEDY ANDREWS teaches in the Department of English at the University of Ulster

Tongue of Water, Teeth of Stones Jonathan Hufstader, 2021-12-14 In a 1984 lecture on poetry and political violence Seamus Heaney remarked that the idea of poetry was itself that higher ideal to which the poets had unconsciously turned in order to survive the demeaning conditions Jonathan Hufstader examines the work of Heaney and his contemporaries to discover how poems combining conscious technique with unconscious impulse work as aesthetic forms and as strategies for emotional survival In his powerful study Hufstader shows how a number of contemporary Northern Irish poets including Seamus Heaney Derek Mahon Michael Longley Paul Muldoon Tom Paulin Ciaran Carson and Medbh McGuckian explore the resources of language and poetic form in their various responses to cultural conflict and political violence Focusing on both style and social contexts Hufstader explores the tension between solidarity and art between the poet's need to belong and to rebel He believes that an understanding of the power of lyric points towards an understanding of the source of social violence and of its cessation
