Machine Learning Methods For Ecological Applications:

Machine Learning Methods for Ecological Applications Alan H. Fielding,2012-12-06 It is difficult to become an ecologist withou t acquiring some breadth For example we are expected to be competent statisticians and taxonomists who appreciate the importance of spatial and temporal processes whilst recognising the potential offered by techniques such as RAPD It is therefore with some trepidation that we offer a collection of potentially useful methods that will be unfamiliar and possibly alien to most ecologists I don t feel old but when I was undertaking my postgraduate research our lab calculator was mechanical There was great excitement in my fmal year when we obtained an unbelievably expensive electronic calculator Later I progressed to running obs on a PRIME minicomputer via a collection of punched cards Those who complain about the problems with current computers don t know how lucky they are In 1984 I wrote a book entitled Computing for Biologists Although it was mainly concerned with writing short programs it did also look at wider aspects of the role of computers in the biological sciences Machine learning was not mentioned in that book probably because of ignorance but also because the methods were relatively unknown outside of the relatively small number of workers in the broad field that is now known as machine learning During 1985 I spent a sabbatical year at York University following their Biological Computation masters programme This course was a unique blend of computer science mathematics and statistics   Machine Learning for Ecology and Sustainable Natural Resource Management Grant Humphries,Dawn R. Magness,Falk Huettmann,2018-11-05 Ecologists and natural resource managers are charged with making complex management decisions in the face of a rapidly changing environment resulting from climate change energy development urban sprawl invasive species and globalization Advances in Geographic Information System GIS technology digitization online data availability historic legacy datasets remote sensors and the ability to collect data on animal movements via satellite and GPS have given rise to large highly complex datasets These datasets could be utilized for making critical management decisions but are often messy and difficult to interpret Basic artificial intelligence algorithms i e machine learning are powerful tools that are shaping the world and must be taken advantage of in the life sciences In ecology machine learning algorithms are critical to helping resource managers synthesize information to better understand complex ecological systems Machine Learning has a wide variety of powerful applications with three general uses that are of particular interest to ecologists 1 data exploration to gain system knowledge and generate new hypotheses 2 predicting ecological patterns in space and time and 3 pattern recognition for ecological sampling Machine learning can be used to make predictive assessments even when relationships between variables are poorly understood When traditional techniques fail to capture the relationship between variables effective use of machine learning can unearth and capture previously unattainable insights into an ecosystem s complexity Currently many ecologists do not utilize machine learning as a part of the scientific process This volume highlights how machine learning techniques can complement the traditional methodologies currently applied in this field   Encyclopedia of Ecology: D-F
