Booktalks and Beyond Lucy Schall, 2007-05-30 Promote today's best and most popular YA books with help from this practical guide. Focusing on titles published after 2000, Schall provides you with background information ready to use or adapt, booktalks, read-aloud selections, learning activities, and related reads for approximately 100 fiction and nonfiction books with broad teen appeal. Organized by genres and themes, it has something for every teen reader. Whether you are a public or school librarian, teacher, or teen group leader, you'll find this collection helpful in motivating teens to read, building their appreciation of books, and in extending learning opportunities beyond the reading experience. Grades 6-12.

An Epsilon of Room, II Terence Tao, 2010 There are many bits and pieces of folklore in mathematics that are passed down from advisor to student or from collaborator to collaborator but which are too fuzzy and nonrigorous to be discussed in the formal literature. Traditionally it was a matter of luck and location as to who learned such folklore in mathematics. But today such bits and pieces can be communicated effectively and efficiently via the semiformal medium of research blogging. This book grew from such a blog. In 2007 Terry Tao began a mathematical blog to cover a variety of topics ranging from his own research and other recent developments in mathematics to lecture notes for his classes to nontechnical puzzles and expository articles. The first two years of the blog have already been published by the American Mathematical Society. The posts from the third year are being published in two volumes. This second volume contains a broad selection of mathematical expositions and self-contained technical notes in many areas of mathematics such as logic, mathematical physics, combinatorics, number theory, statistics, theoretical computer science, and group theory. Tao has an extraordinary ability to explain deep results to his audience, which has made his blog quite popular. Some examples of this facility in the present book are the tale of two students and a multiple-choice exam being used to explain the P vs NP conjecture and a discussion of no-self-defeating object arguments that starts from a schoolyard number game and ends with results in logic game theory and theoretical physics. The first volume consists of a second course in real analysis together with related material from the blog and it can be read independently.

Mixed Heritage in Young Adult Literature Nancy Thalia Reynolds, 2009-03-19 Mixed heritage people are one of the fastest growing groups in the United States, yet culturally they have been largely invisible, especially in young adult literature. Mixed Heritage in Young Adult Literature is a critical exploration of how mixed heritage characters—those of mixed race, ethnicity, religion, and/or adoption and real-life people—have been portrayed in young adult fiction and nonfiction. This is the first in-depth, broad-scope critical exploration of this subgenre.

of multicultural literature Following an introduction to the topic author Nancy Thalia Reynolds examines the portrayal of mixed heritage characters in literary classics by James Fenimore Cooper Mark Twain and Zora Neale Hurston staples of today s high school English curriculum along with other important authors It opens up the discussion of young adult racial and ethnic identity in literature to recognize and focus on those whose heritage straddles boundaries In this book teachers will find new tools to approach race ethnicity and family heritage in literature and in the classroom This book also helps librarians find new criteria with which to evaluate young adult fiction and nonfiction with mixed heritage characters
