Discourse on Nature and Purpose Michelle Baker,W. Baker,2020-09 For thousands of years the tools of logic have been applied to different disciplines with the purpose of discovering and revealing truth Until several hundred years ago using logic to learn the truths held within nature was simply referred to as natural philosophy which basically just means the study of nature As mankind grew in knowledge we unfortunately diminished in wisdom and natural philosophy became physics and metaphysics meta meaning beyond implying that the issues of metaphysics were beyond those that should be dealt with by science This separation always artificial has now become a hindrance Quantum mechanics for instance necessitates discussion of issues like super determinism and free will modern science has progressed beyond classical physics and IS now metaphysics in the truest sense of the word This treatise utilizes the full toolbox of logic contained within natural philosophy employing both physics and metaphysics in an attempt to discover the nature of the world in which we exist and our purpose within it
