Riding Recollections

Whyte-Melville,2015-06-24 Excerpt from Riding Recollections As in the choice of a horse and a wife a man must please himself ignoring the opinion and advice of friends so in the governing of each it is unwise to follow out any fixed system of discipline Much depends on temper education mutual understanding and surrounding circumstances Courage must not be heated to recklessness caution should be implied rather than exhibited and confidence is simply a question of time and place

It is as difficult to explain by precept or demonstrate by example how force balance and persuasion ought to be combined in horsemanship as to teach the art of floating in the water or swimming on the back Practice in either case alone makes perfect and he is the most apt pupil who brings to his lesson a good opinion of his own powers and implicit reliance on that which carries him Trust the element or the animal and you ride aloft superior to danger but with misgiving comes confusion
