Mirus,2022-03-18 In his contemplative works on nature Aristotle twice appeals to the general principle that being is better than not being Taking his cue from this claim Christopher V Mirus offers an extended systematic account of how Aristotle understands being itself to be good Mirus begins with the human examining Aristotle s well known claim that the end of a human life is the good of the human substance as such which turns out to be the good of the human capacity for thought Human thought however is not concerned with human affairs alone It is also contemplative and contemplation is oriented toward the beauty of its objects In each of the three branches of contemplative thought mathematics natural science and theology the intelligibility of being renders it beautiful to thought Both in nature and in human life moreover the being that is beautiful through its intelligibility serves also as an end of motion and of action hence it counts not only as beautiful kalon but also as good agathon The persistent concern of thought with the beautiful reveals what is at stake for human beings in Aristotle s larger metaphysics of the good in the connection between goodness and actuality that structures his natural science and metaphysics in his explicit claim that being is better than not being and in his concepts of order and determinacy which help connect being with goodness These in turn shed light on his concepts of the complete and the self sufficient on his teleological understanding of the four elements and on the curious role of the honorable in his natural science and metaphysics Is One Religion as Good as Another? John MacLaughlin,1889 The Metaphysics of the School: Book 1.
