Effective Risk Communication V.T. Covello, David B. McCallum, Maria T. Pavlova, 2012-12-06 One of the greatest challenges facing those concerned with health and environmental risks is how to carry on a useful public dialogue on these subjects In a democracy it is the public that ultimately makes the key decisions on how these risks will be controlled The stakes are too high for us not to do our very best The importance of this subject is what led the Task Force on Environmental Cancer and Heart and Lung Disease to establish an Interagency Group on Public Education and Communication This volume captures the essence of the Workshop on the Role of Government in Health Risk Communication and Public Education held in January 1987 It also includes some valuable appendixes with practical guides to risk communication As such it is an important building block in the effort to improve our collective ability to carry on this critical public dialogue Lee M Thomas Administrator U S Environmental Protection Agency and Chairman The Task Force on Environmental Cancer and Heart and Lung Disease Preface The Task Force on Environmental Cancer and Heart and Lung Disease is an interagency group established by the Clean Air Act Amendments of 1977 P L 95 95 Congress mandated the Task Force to recommend research to determine the relationship between environmental pollutants and human disease and to recommend research aimed at reducing the incidence of environment related disease The Task Force s Project Group on Public Education and Communication focuses on education as a means of reducing or preventing disease Effective Risk Communication

Timothy L. Sellnow, Robert R. Ulmer, Matthew W. Seeger, Robert Littlefield, 2008-12-05 Coordination of risk assessments and risk communication strategies requires information sharing and establishing networks of working relationships between groups and agencies Establishing these relationships necessitates overcoming institutional cultural and political boundaries Significant barriers exist between regulatory agencies and industry groups Traditionally these groups have mistrusted one another and cooperation and collaboration including sharing information correspondingly has been limited The adoption of radio frequency identification technology for tracking livestock for example has been met with significant resistance due in part to mistrust between regulatory agencies and producers Veil 2006 In the food industry the need for coordination has been enhanced by industry integration and globalization of both markets and production In the case of GM foods discussed earlier disagreements between U S European Union and Canadian regulatory agencies fueled the debate over the safety of GM crops Overcoming institutional and cultural barriers and mistrust is necessary to create consistency in risk messages Open communication and information sharing can help clarify where risk perceptions diverge and identify points of convergence The outcome may not be universal agreement about risks but convergence around the general parameters of risk Summary These best practice strategies of risk communication are not designed to function as distinct steps or isolated approaches Rather than being mutually exclusive they serve to complement one another and create a coherent approach to confronting risk communication problems
