Making The News:

MAKING NEWS: A STUDY IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF REALITY Gaye Tuchman,1978-11 Making News Richard R. John,Jonathan Silberstein-Loeb,2015-09-24 How can the news business be re envisioned in a rapidly changing world Can market incentives and technological imperatives provide a way forward How important have been the institutional arrangements that protected the production and distribution of news in the past Making News charts the institutional arrangements that news providers in Britain and America have relied on since the late seventeenth century to facilitate the production and distribution of news It is organized around eight original essays each written by a distinguished specialist and each explicitly comparative Seven chapters survey the shifting institutional arrangements that facilitated the production and distribution of news in Britain and America in the period between 1688 and 1995 An eighth chapter surveys the news business following the commercialization of the Internet while the epilogue links past present and future Its theme is the indispensability in both Great Britain and the United States of non market institutional arrangements in the provisioning of news Only rarely has advertising revenue and direct sales covered costs Almost never has the demand for news generated the revenue necessary for its supply The presumption that the news business can flourish in a marketplace of ideas has long been a civic ideal In practice however the emergence of a genuinely competitive marketplace for the production and distribution of news has limited the resources for high quality news reporting For the production of high quality journalism is a byproduct less of the market than of its supersession And in particular it has long depended on the acquiescence of lawmakers in market limiting business strategies that have transformed journalism in the past and that will in all likelihood transform it once again in the future Making News David Henderson,2008-11-02 Making News A Straight Shooting Guide to Media Relations is an insider s look at today s changing news media with essential tips for How to ensure your story will be chosen as today s news How to gain credibility and achieve effective coverage How to better communicate with reporters editors and producers How to use media coverage to build a distinctive brand image From the perspective of an accomplished expert and with advice from leading journalists Making News provides a deeper understanding of how the news business functions how journalists judge the value of a legitimate story and how you can communicate with the media to achieve outstanding results PRAISE FOR DAVID HENDERSON Public relations is never as easy as it looks So you are lucky to be reading this book for few know PR as well as David Henderson A skilled correspondent and a gifted man David knows both sides of the process of delivering a message Harry Smith CBS News David Henderson has worked both sides of the street as a reporter and an advocate He has that double advantage of knowing a story and knowing how to sell it Richard Serrano Los Angeles Times Making News at The New York Times Nikki Usher,2014-04-24 An ethnographic study of The New York Times business desk provides a unique vantage point to see the future for news in the digital age Making Laws and Making News Timothy Cook,2010-12-01 The news media especially television have become a fixture on Capitol

Hill in the past twenty years Making Laws and Making News describes the interactive relationship between the press and Congress that strongly affects the news the legislative process and the types of laws enacted Instead of focusing on how reporters decide who and what to cover and how news is resented Cook examines the other side of the equation the relationship between the media strategies of House member s press offices and the legislative strategies of the members themselves The book won the 1990 Benjamin Franklin Award for Excellence in Independent Publishing Making News of Police Violence Jeffrey Ian Ross Ph.D.,2000-08-30 Although many people consider excessive police violence disconcerting if when and how they voice their opinion or respond by taking some sort of action has generally remained empirically unknown In the hope of understanding this process Ross has developed a four stage model based on a review of the literature and on interviews with the relevant actors He then uses this tool to analyze police violence that occurred in Toronto Canada and New York City over a fifteen year period To better focus the study he uses in depth case studies of three well publicized cases of police violence from each city matched on important criteria This study addresses a difficult timely and important topic for victims for police personnel and for society Ross concludes that in general most individuals do not respond to police use of excessive force further if and when they do usually depends on the context of the violence Using both quantitative and qualitative methods Ross s model integrates a variety of approaches to improve our understanding of how communities come to define and control the use of force by police including literature on the role of media efforts and their impact upon police violence The work concludes with an analysis of the reasons why people react so infrequently to incidents of excessive force

Boydston,2013-08-26 Media attention can play a profound role in whether or not officials act on a policy issue but how policy issues make the news in the first place has remained a puzzle Why do some issues go viral and then just as quickly fall off the radar How is it that the media can sustain public interest for months in a complex story like negotiations over Obamacare while ignoring other important issues in favor of stories on balloon boy With Making the News Amber Boydston offers an eye opening look at the explosive patterns of media attention that determine which issues are brought before the public At the heart of her argument is the observation that the media have two modes an alarm mode for breaking stories and a patrol mode for covering them in greater depth While institutional incentives often initiate alarm mode around a story they also propel news outlets into the watchdog like patrol mode around its policy implications until the next big news item breaks What results from this pattern of fixation followed by rapid change is skewed coverage of policy issues with a few receiving the majority of media attention while others receive none at all Boydston documents this systemic explosiveness and skew through analysis of media coverage across policy issues including in depth looks at the waxing and waning of coverage around two issues capital punishment and the war on terror Making the News shows how the seemingly unpredictable day to day decisions of the newsroom produce distinct patterns of operation with implications good and bad for national politics
