Re-imagining Playwork through a Poststructural Lens Linda Jane Shaw, 2022-07-29 This book explores how poststructural theory can make an important contribution to the growing body of work on playwork as an academic field of practice and research Drawing on theoretical concepts used by sociologists and philosophers such as the sociological imagination Mills hauntings and the fictive Derrida and technologies of power and the self Foucault the text considers how these devices may be methodologically productive for playwork research It reframes research into children and childhood as a process in which research and practice are connected but diverse skills The book raises questions around power and voice and highlights the complexity of research which involves human participants and their roles as researcher and or researched Chapters relate concepts from post structural feminist research and frame them within the context of playwork practice through the use of vignettes constructed from stories told by playwork practitioners and the children with whom they work A valuable addition to an emerging academic field this book will be of great interest to researchers and students in the fields of playwork research education and youth studies early childhood students and the sociology of education

Reflective Playwork Jacky Kilvington, Ali Wood, 2010-02-10 Reflective Playwork provides an introduction to playwork values principles and practice for all who work with children It recognizes that play is a need for all and seeks to encourage the provision of time and space for all children to freely enjoy its benefits In a world where we are ever seeking to protect our children and to encourage their educational progress it is often overlooked that the need for play is as important as the need for food and sleep Play deprivation can result in a child having less energy for education a lower ability to use creative and imaginative ways of problem solving a poorer self image being less able to cope with the stresses and strains of life and sometimes being more likely to look for kicks in anti social ways This book encourages a greater understanding of play from the child s perspective and suggests ways in which adults can support and enhance play It covers Playwork principles and practice Play theory The child Playwork values and practice Playwork and society Playwork education training and continuing professional development Quality and management of playwork It is written for those who are instinctively or otherwise looking to promote and celebrate the need for play in all of their work with children and who see their role as supportive rather than supervisory Further it is for those who recognize that the rewards of working with children come as a privilege Reflective Playwork is for the playworker and for all others who work with children such as childcare practitioners teaching assistants health workers social workers teachers and those in management who are looking to understand and adopt at appropriate times the values and principles in their own settings

Making Life a Masterpiece Orison Swett Marden, 1916 The Individual in the Making Edwin Asbury Kirkpatrick, 1911 In this volume it is proposed to discuss the development of individual human minds chiefly from the subjective point of view The educator like the mariner needs a chart by which he may guide the child into the most favoring channels and past the most serious dangers that are found in each stage of development from childhood to maturity The author believes that the descriptions and suggestions herein given lead toward the truth The ideas as expressed are not given as final truth for the guidance of psychologists and educators but as a formulation of facts and principles to be corrected and completed by further scientific investigations and tested by practical educational experience It is hoped that the work is sufficiently concrete and specific to be of interest and value to parents and teachers who have not received much training in psychology It will be of most value however to those who have had a good deal of experience with children
