Beetz,1996 Oscillation in Literary Modernism John Francis Harty,2009 While the two modernist novels considered in this book Samuel Beckett's Murphy and Malcolm Lowry's Under the Volcano were initially understood within the categories of stoic and tragic despair more recent criticism has focused upon their carnivalesque dimension The identification of these hermeneutic polarities presented the author with the challenging problem which underlies the present analysis namely the question concerning the structural relationship between the contesting thematics Drawing upon the paradigm of oscillation as established within the natural sciences and adding a figurative dimension to the concept the author has adapted this model as a key to unravelling the narrative buoyancy and structural coherence which sustain these novels of Modernism The book elucidates how the carnivalesque challenge to despair contributes towards innovative narrative configurations galvanizing the thematic antipodes into vertiginous microcosms of defiant selfhood Wandering through Guilt Paola Di Gennaro,2015-06-18 The first comprehensive study on the pattern of guilt and wandering in literature this book examines the relationship between the two complex concepts as they appear in twentieth century novels positing its methodological premises on archetypal criticism and both close and distant reading but also drawing on psychology anthropology mythology and religion This research deciphers a common paradigm and literary representation whose archetype within Western literature is found in the biblical figure of Cain while presenting a critical framework valid for boundary crossing comparative approaches From Graham Greene's The Power and the Glory and Malcolm Lowry's Under the Volcano to Wolfgang Koeppen's Death in Rome and Oka Sh. Hei's Fires on the Plain this book is not merely a thematic study but an analysis of the literary phenomena that appear in those novels where the sense of guilt is controversially subjective or so collective as to be perceived as universal as is often the case with war and postwar literature Di Gennaro goes beyond the analysis of explicit rewritings of the story of Cain in order to uncover the monomyth through its rhetorical structures and mythical methods The wasteland with no religion the lost abandoned garden the classical and religiously corrupted city and the tropical cannibalistic island at war are the respective settings of these narratives where the issue is neither homelessness nor journeying but rather the desperate and futile movement toward self consciousness or self destruction After the Second World War much was silenced rather than left unsaid This study retraces those silent cries over history through the powerful literary marks of myths The British Library General Catalogue of Printed Books 1976 to 1982 British Library,1983 The Practical Vision Flora Roy,1978-07-04 The Practical Vision Essays in English Literature in Honour of Flora Roy contains essays offered as a tribute on the occasion of Dr Flora Roy's retirement as a Canadian university teacher of English These essays reflect the literary interests and administrative activities of Dr Roy and demonstrate the relationship between literature and the perennial human urge to achieve understanding and control of both
