Macro and Micro Approaches

Martin
Cadwallader

An abstract graphic consisting of multiple parallel, stepped lines in white and black, set against a solid red background. The lines create a sense of depth and movement, resembling a staircase or a series of interconnected paths that recede into the distance.

Migration Residential Mobility Macro Micro Approaches:

Migration and Residential Mobility Martin T. Cadwallader, 1992 Analyzes the phenomenon of human migration especially in the industrialized countries of the west Explains and applies various kinds of models most of them statistical and most derived from the general linear model Organized around two axes micro vs macro approaches and interregional vs intracity migration Paper edition unseen 18 95 Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR Residential Relocations and their Consequences Philipp M. Lersch, 2013-11-12 Philipp M Lersch shows that residential relocations may change individuals lives for the better but also for the worse depending on their resources restrictions and contextual conditions A comparative analysis of English and German panel data reveals that relocations improve the quality of dwellings on average in both countries but improvements strongly depend on life course stages and economic resources of individuals Only few individuals improve their neighbourhoods when relocating Conditions in the housing market are important determinants of these changes Gender inequality persists in the occupational outcomes of relocations in England and West Germany Due to institutional conditions residential trajectories in England exhibit more variation and a higher risk of changes for the worse than in Germany These innovative findings will inspire further research on the consequences of residential relocations

The International Handbook on Gender, Migration and Transnationalism Laura Oso, Natalia Ribas-Mateos, 2013-01-01 The highly unique International Handbook on Gender Migration and Transnationalism represents a state of the art review of the critical importance of the links between gender and migration in a globalizing world It draws on original largely field based contributions by authors across a range of disciplinary provenances worldwide This unprecedented and ambitious Handbook addresses core debates on issues of gender migration transnationalism and development from a migrationdevelopment nexus Using an analytical approach it explores the influence of global changes namely the analysis of transnational migration flows from the perspective of the articulation of production and reproduction chains Particular attention is paid to so called global care chains with new models developed around the emerging trends played out by women in contemporary mobility flows This path breaking Handbook will provide a thought provoking read for a multidisciplinary audience of academics researchers and students of social science disciplines encompassing economics sociology geography demography political science and political sociology migration studies family and gender studies and labour markets The Handbook will also be of major interest to and importance for local and national governments international agencies and their policymakers and administrators Behavioral Problems in Geography Revisited Kevin R Cox, Reginald Golledge, 2015-12-22 This collection of papers originally published in 1981 reviews and evaluates past and possible future advances in a field of central importance to human geography behavioral geography The book includes critical studies which show how the approach has contributed substantially to work within four areas of amjor application in behavioral geography urban travel behavior environmental cognition residential mobility and spatial diffusion The final section of the book focuses on the shortcomings of the behavioral approach and considers the alternative modes of analysis available

Tracking Prehistoric Migrations Jeffery J. Clark, 2001-02-01 This monograph takes a fresh look at migration in light of the recent resurgence of interest in this topic within archaeology The author develops a reliable approach for detecting and assessing the impact of migration based on conceptions of style in anthropology From numerous ethnoarchaeological and ethnohistoric case studies material culture attributes are isolated that tend to be associated only with the groups that produce them Clark uses this approach to evaluate Puebloan migration into the Tonto Basin of east central Arizona during the early Classic period A D 1200 1325 focusing on a community that had been developing with substantial Hohokam influence prior to this interval He identifies Puebloan enclaves in the indigenous settlements based on culturally specific differences in the organization of domestic space and in technological styles reflected in wall construction and utilitarian ceramic manufacture Puebloan migration was initially limited in scale resulting in the co residence of migrants and local groups within a single community Once this co residence settlement pattern is reconstructed relations between the two groups are examined and the short term and long term impacts of migration are assessed The early Classic period is associated with the appearance of the Salado horizon in the Tonto Basin The results of this research suggest that migration and co residence was common throughout the basins and valleys in the region defined by the Salado horizon although each local sequence relates a unique story The methodological and theoretical implications of Clark s work extend well beyond the Salado and the Southwest and apply to any situation in which the scale and impact of prehistoric migration are contested

Contemporary Minority Migration, Education, and Ethnicity in China Robyn R. Iredale, Naran Bilik, Wang Su, Fei Guo, Caroline Hoy, 2001 Rural urban migration is an important aspect in the development of countries Until the late 1980s China was one of the few countries that controlled population movement both directly and indirectly through policies of economic and social control The gradual relaxation of these policies has resulted in greater freedom of movement for the population the effects of which are discussed in this significant volume The book concentrates on the migration of minorities from a social economic and ethnic perspective and attempts to quantify the overall level of movement In particular the authors examine the relationships between education ethnicity and migration and identify the policies and conditions conducive to achieving positive outcomes for minority migrant households The book aims to increase our understanding of the effects of movement on the social economic and ethnic status of migrant families Taking existing census data as a starting point the book makes a new contribution by drawing on a unique survey in four different regions the data from which is used as the basis for detailed case study analysis The study of internal migration is vital the authors argue in order to understand the change process from a centrally planned economic system to a market orientated society in China The internal mobility of minorities can be regarded equally as both a product of and a contributing factor to this social transformation This notable and very readable book will be of significant interest to policymakers international and development economists and researchers and students of Asian economics and demographics Migration, Environment and Climate Change Frank Laczko,Christine Aghazarm,2009 Gradual and sudden environmental changes are resulting in substantial human movement and displacement and the scale of such flows both internal and cross border is expected to rise with unprecedented impacts on lives and livelihoods Despite the potential challenge there has been a lack of strategic thinking about this policy area partly due to a lack of data and empirical research on this topic Adequately planning for and managing environmentallyinduced migration will be critical for human security The papers in this volume were first presented at the Research Workshop on Migration and the Environment Developing a Global Research Agenda held in Munich Germany in April 2008 One of the key objectives on the Munich workshop was to address the need for more sound empirical research and identify priority areas of research for policy makers in the field of migration and the environment Journal of the Urban and Regional Information Systems Association ,1993 Agricultural Impact Statement, STH 26, IH 90 to STH 60 East, Rock, Jefferson and Dodge Counties Michael D. Wyatt,2004 Sociological Abstracts ,1994 Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1993 Connections ,1993 Population Turnover and Area Deprivation Nick J. Bailey,Mark Livingston,2007 This report provides the first analysis of neighbourhood migration flows for the whole of England and Scotland based primarily on data from the Census 2001
