Ryals, 2016-11-11 One of Keats' finest sonnets begins Much have I traveled yet Keats traveled very little only to Italy where he died Shelley also an introspective and intellectual dabbled in politics often with a comic effect and although he could not swim he was devoted to sailing Wordsworth marched to France praising the Revolution which he later regretted Coleridge wandered to Germany and German metaphysics Later he created the Ancient Mariner which is the mythic centerpiece of the Romantic period Each of these poets feels that the occupation of a poet demands a dedication to a life of action as well as inward discovery Consequently the image of the journey with its double reference to natural and psychic realities is one of the unifying motifs of nineteenth century poetry Alfred Tennyson the author claims was one of the last poets able to make both voyages but he could only do so with great effort and at great expense By nature introspective he found the life of the mind far more appealing than the life of action yet he knew like Milton and Keats before him that great poetry demands the voyage without as well as the voyage within His early poetry then is concerned with the pull of the two voyages and thus it becomes in Arnold's worlds the dialogue of the mind with itself There is for modern readers something intensely interesting about such a divided personality for we see in Tennyson almost the same dilemma that faces contemporary artists Often when we read his poems we feel that Tennyson is of our age But then at times he seems as remote from us as Bishop Wilberforce and his anti-Darwin fulminations What then is there about Tennyson that makes him appear so modern and yet so dated The answer is not easily given although this has been one of the primary concerns of Tennyson's critics. In this book the author shows how Tennyson became the mental voyager exploring both the inner and outer worlds and further how in making the two voyages he followed the pattern of development of other Romantic artists of the nineteenth century. He examines certain themes and images in Tennyson's early verse which in their frequent recurrence attain symbolic status and by doing so he shows that there is a very clear cut pattern in Tennyson's poetry one which is repeated time and again throughout the poet's work to 1850. Lyric and Dramatic Poetry, 1946-82 Aimé Césaire, 1990 over emergent literature and will show him to be a major figure in the conflict between tradition and contemporary cultural identity. Tennyson's Poems R. H. Winnick, 2019-04-18 In Tennyson's Poems New Textual Parallels R. H. Winnick identifies more than a thousand previously unknown instances in which Tennyson phrases of two or three to as many as several words are similar or identical to those occurring in prior works by other hands. Discoveries aided by the proliferation of digitized texts and the related development of powerful search tools over the three decades since the most recent major edition of Tennyson's poems was published. Each of these instances may be deemed an allusion meant to be recognized as such and pointing for definable purposes to a particular antecedent text, an echo, conscious or not, deliberate or not, meant to be noticed or not, meaningful or not, or merely accidental. Unless accidental, Winnick writes, these new textual parallels significantly expand our knowledge both of Tennyson's reading and of his thematic intentions and artistic technique. Coupled with the thousand plus textual parallels previously reported by Christopher Ricks and other scholars, he says, they suggest that a fundamental and lifelong aspect of Tennyson's art was his habit of echoing any work, ancient or modern, which had the potential to enhance the resonance or deepen the meaning of his poems. The new textual parallels Winnick has identified point most often to the King James Bible and to such canonical authors as Shakespeare, Milton, Dryden, Pope, Thomson, Cowper, Shelley, Byron, and Wordsworth. But they also point to many authors rarely if ever previously cited in Tennyson editions and studies, including Michael Drayton, Richard Blackmore, Isaac Watts, Erasmus Darwin, John Ogilvie, Anna Letitia Barbauld, Letitia Elizabeth Landon, John Wilson, and with surprising frequency Felicia Hemans. Tennyson's Poems New Textual Parallels is thus a major new resource for Tennyson scholars and students, an indispensable adjunct to the 1987 edition of Tennyson's complete poems edited by Christopher Ricks. Festus, a Poem Philip James Bailey, 1847 The Red Hour Rena Aliston, 2024-09-20 Midnight the hour of new beginnings I enter renewed, welcoming time, transition, unaware of what I'm ushering in.
