In 1940 when the British landscape was under attack from the threat of German bombers the Ministry of Labour in association with the Pilgrim Trust commissioned many of Britain's artists to go out and paint a record of the changing face of the country before it was too late. The resulting pictures of market towns, agricultural landscapes, rural industries, architectural follies and wild places were given to the Victoria and Albert Museum. Originally issued as a four volume set edited by Arnold Palmer and published by Oxford University Press in association with the Pilgrim Trust 1946-1949. This book presents a selection of the collection published to coincide with the exhibition held by the Victoria and Albert Museum London from 1 August to 18 November 1990.

Picturing home Hollie Price,2021-02-09

Picturing home examines the depiction of domestic life in British feature films made and released in the 1940s. It explores how pictorial representations of home onscreen in this period reimagined modes of address that had been used during the interwar years to promote ideas about domestic modernity. Picturing home provides a close analysis of domestic life as constructed in eight films, contextualising them in relation to a broader offscreen culture surrounding the suburban home, including magazines, advertisements, furniture catalogues and displays at the Daily Mail Ideal Home Exhibition. In doing so it offers a new reading of British 1940s films which demonstrates how they trod a delicate path balancing prewar and postwar traditional and modern private and public concerns.

R.S. Thomas M. Wynn Thomas,2013-02-15

Published to mark the centenary of the sometime ogre of Wales, this volume by the executor of his unpublished literary estate deals with the idiosyncrasies that serially possessed his fiercely intense imagination. Iago Prytherch, Wales, his family and, of course, a vexingly elusive Deity. Here these familiar obsessions are set in several unusual contexts that bring his poetry into startling new relief. His war poetry is considered alongside his early poetry's relationship to English topographical tradition, comparisons with Borges and Levertov underline the international dimensions of his concerns. The intriguing secret code of some of his Welsh language references is cracked and his painting poems, including several hitherto unpublished, are moved centre stage from the peripheries to which they've been routinely relegated.

Recording Britain Vol 4 ,1946 Welsh Environments in Contemporary Poetry Matthew Jarvis,2021-03-15

Welsh Environments in Contemporary Poetry examines the question of how recent English language poetry from Wales has responded to the diverse physical environments of Wales. The first volume to offer a sustained assessment of Welsh poetry in English within the context of recent developments in environmental literary criticism, this book also draws on aspects of human geography to explore the rich contemporary poetics of Welsh space and place. Opening with an examination of poets from the 1960s as well as the early work of R. S. Thomas, Welsh Environments in

Contemporary Poetry subsequently concentrates on the poetry of writers who have come to prominence since the 1970s Gillian Clarke Ruth Bidgood Robert Minhinnick Mike Jenkins Christine Evans and Ian Davidson Close reading of key texts reveals the way in which these writers variously create Welsh places landscapes and environments fashioning rural and urban spaces into poetic geographies that are both abundantly physical and inescapably cultural Far from reducing Wales to mere scenery the poetry that emerges from this book engages with the environments of Wales not just for their own sake but as a crucial way of exploring key issues in Welsh culture from the negotiation of female identity in a land of masculine myths to the exploration of Welsh space in a global context
