Bodden,Randy Gallaher,Michael Sullivan (III),Michael, Michael Sullivan,III,2006-06 Nonlinear Theory of Pseudodifferential Equations on a Half-line Nakao Hayashi,Elena Kaikina,2004-01-13 This book is the first attempt to develop systematically a general theory of the initial boundary value problems for nonlinear evolution equations with pseudodifferential operators Ku on a half line or on a segment We study traditionally important problems such as local and global existence of solutions and their properties in particular much attention is drawn to the asymptotic behavior of solutions for large time Up to now the theory of nonlinear initial boundary value problems with a general pseudodifferential operator has not been well developed due to its difficulty There are many open natural questions Firstly how many boundary data should we pose on the initial boundary value problems for its correct solvability As far as we know there are few results in the case of nonlinear nonlocal equations The methods developed in this book are applicable to a wide class of dispersive and dissipative nonlinear equations both local and nonlocal For the first time the definition of pseudodifferential operator on a half line and a segment is done A wide class of nonlinear nonlocal and local equations is considered Developed theory is general and applicable to different equations The book is written clearly many examples are considered Asymptotic formulas can be used for numerical computations by engineers and physicists The authors are recognized experts in the nonlinear wave phenomena
