Preventing Aids:

Preventing Aids Seth C. Kalichman, 2014-02-25 This book provides a comprehensive overview of behavioral interventions to prevent HIV AIDS risk related behaviors It synthesizes the empirical literature on individual group and community level interventions and provides an objective and detailed assessment of intervention outcomes Factors associated with behavioral risk for HIV transmission theories of HIV risk behavior change and the state of HIV prevention technology transfer are also reviewed Additionally behavioral interventions for adolescents and adults of diverse ethnic and sexual backgrounds are discussed with respect to each intervention type Although the focus is on sexual risk reduction interventions for sexual behavior of substance abusing populations are also covered

Progress in Preventing AIDS? David Ross Buchanan, George Peter Cernada, 2019-03-19 Originally published in the International Quarterly of Community Health Education this work presents twenty one chapters about the state of HIV AIDS prevention programs in a global context

Handbook of HIV Prevention John L. Peterson, Ralph J. DiClemente, 2000-02-29 This Handbook provides a comprehensive overview of the theories methods and approaches for reducing HIV associated risk behaviors It represents the first single source of information about HIV prevention research in developed and developing countries It will be an important resource for students researchers and clinicians in the field

Preventing HIV through safe voluntary medical male circumcision for adolescent boys and men in generalized HIV epidemics World Health Organization, 2020-08-31 Since 2007 the World Health Organization WHO and the Joint United Nations Programme on HIV AIDS UNAIDS have recommended voluntary medical male circumcision VMMC as an important strategy for the prevention of heterosexually acquired HIV in men in settings where the prevalence of heterosexually transmitted HIV is high Over 25 million men and adolescent boys in East and Southern Africa have been reached with VMMC services These new guidelines update earlier WHO recommendations to maximize the HIV prevention impact of safe VMMC services and aim to guide the transition to the sustained provision of interventions with a focus on the health and well being of both adolescent boys and men

Preventing HIV in Developing Countries Laura Gibney, Ralph J. DiClemente, Sten H. Vermund, 2006-04-11 Globally action to prevent HIV spread is inadequate Over 16 000 new infections occur every day Yet we are not helpless in the face of disaster as shown by the rich prevention experience analyzed in this valuable new compendium Best practice exists a set of tried and tested ways of slowing the spread of HIV of persuading and enabling people to protect themselves and others from the virus Individually features of best practice can be found almost everywhere The tragedy on a world scale is that prevention is spotty not comprehensive the measures are not being applied on anywhere near the scale needed or with the right focus or synergy The national response may concentrate solely on sex workers for example Elsewhere efforts may go into school education for the young but ignore the risks and vulnerability of men who have sex with men Action may be patchy geographically AIDS prevention may not benefit from adequate commitment from all parts and sectors of society compromising the sustainability of the response In some countries matters are still worse there is still hardly any action at all against AIDS and scarcely any effort to make HIV visible It is no wonder that the epidemic is still emerging and in some places is altogether out of control

Handbook of Health Promotion and Disease Prevention James M. Raczynski, Ralph J. DiClemente, 2013-11-11 The idea for this volume developed when we were co teaching our introductory master s level course in the Department of Health Behavior at the UAB School of Public Health a core course for all masters of public health students in the school regardless of the department in which they enrolled or the focus of their studies Hence in the course we sought to provide both students in our department as well as those who might not ever again take a health behavior course with an overview that would both truly represent the field and substantially provide educational research and public health practice benefits This was and continues to be a challenge with the diversity of students specializing in fields that include not only health behavior but also bio statistics environmental health sciences epidemiology health care organization and policy international health and maternal and child health The course that we taught attempted to provide the students with an overview of some of the important health promotion and disease prevention theories methods and policy issues while re viewing applications of these theories and methods to promoting health and pre venting disease through a variety of channels for a variety of disease outcomes and among a variety of populations Since no one text provided this variety of readings we depended on readings and guest lectures

Recommendations and Guidelines Concerning AIDS. ,1982 Encyclopedia of Primary Prevention and Health Promotion Thomas P. Gullotta, Martin Bloom, 2003-01-31 Foundational topics such as history ethics and principles of primary prevention as well as specific issues such as consultation political issues and financing The second section addresses such topics as abuse depression eating disorders HIV AIDS injuries and religion and spirituality often dividing such topics into separate entries addressing childhood adolescence and adulthood How Latinas Come to Know about AIDS and AIDS Prevention Patricia Walker Caudle, 1992 HIV Prevention in Native American Communities ,1992

Interventions to Prevent HIV Risk Behaviors ,2000 Preventing AIDS Ralph J. DiClemente, John L. Peterson, 1994-03-31 This is the first comprehensive review and examination of the effectiveness of behavioral interventions to reduce HIV related high risk behaviors It describes current theoretical models and empirical studies of behavioral interventions details the state of the art of behavioral intervention strategies for high risk populations and identifies limitations and gaps in prior research and discusses implications for future investigations This vital text will help researchers and clinicians plan develop and evaluate behavioral change approaches to HIV prevention HIV Prevention in Minnesota Minnesota. Department of Health. Commissioner's Task Force on AIDS., 1989 NIMH Multisite HIV Prevention Trial National Institute of Mental Health (U.S.), 1997 Preventing AIDS Benjamin P. Bowser, 2004 This book is designed to help frontline prevention organizations answer two questions that are of utmost importance First how effective are their services and second can their work be improved The absence of rigorous evaluation is a barrier to stable funding for community organizations and the strategies in Preventing AIDS Community Science Collaborations can help overcome that barrier The book examines six unique efforts to prevent the spread of AIDS among high risk populations such as prostitutes injection drug users impoverished pregnant women migrant workers transgendered persons and prison inmates You ll learn about the difficult but critically important cooperative efforts between community organizations who do frontline prevention work and university scientists who evaluate the effectiveness of that work Handy tables and figures make important data easy to access and understand To view an excerpt online find the book in our QuickSearch catalog at www.HaworthPress.com
