

A person with long dark hair, wearing a dark jacket, is sitting on a wooden dock by a lake. The scene is captured at sunset or sunrise, with a warm, golden light reflecting off the water. The person is looking out over the lake, which is surrounded by trees with autumn foliage. The overall mood is contemplative and serene.

Preparing Emotionally for the Death of a Loved One Brian Arcarese, 2010-06 The journey you share with a dying loved one is the culmination of your life together How you view death affects your loved one's dying experience Your choices during this process have results that can linger long after the loved one is gone This journey can be one of fear and clinging or it can focus on love honoring them and providing a comforting peaceful atmosphere Much depends on your approach That's where this book comes in The author's professional experience as a hospice bereavement counselor and deaths of some close family members have given him firsthand experience in traveling through the dying process and grief He saw how people's approach to the process had a direct impact on their grief so he wrote this book to raise awareness of emotional factors around dying With awareness you're better attuned to your loved one's needs so you engage in the dying process instead of running from it You can then experience this as a time of greater intimacy and emotional richness and healing

Preparing for Grief Dorothy Childers, 1994-05-01 PREPARING FOR GRIEF is a self help with God's help guide book with a unique positive approach to coping with grief Most books about grief deal with sorrow as it is experienced but seldom infer that we can prepare for it The author believes there are things emotional as well as practical that people can do ahead of time to prepare themselves to cope with any possible sorrow She has been sharing her ideas based on her personal experiences with grief her 20 year old daughter was killed in a car accident in 1976 with church community groups since 1986 Although the author intends to reach people while grieving situations are hypothetical or in the future her ideas have also been well received by people who have experienced the recent loss of a loved one The retail price is 13.95 plus postage 1.05 for one or two books 1.45 for three or four books postage free for five or more may be ordered by check sorry no credit card to Dorothy Childers 2239 Tangle Lake Drive Kingwood TX 77339 Orders sent to Texas must include 7.25% sales tax Tel 713 359 7274 Facsimile 713 358 8416
